U. S. FROWNS ON FRENCH DEBT PROPOSAL!

Harry G. MacBain Elected Mayor of Glendale!

GERMAN NOTES CANNOT BE RECEIVED, DECISION

Painleve Ministry's Project Already Refused By American Officials

BULLETIN

PARIS, April 21.—Louis Barthou, president of the reparations commission, handed in his resignation as president of the reparations commission today but at the earnest solicitation of Premier Painleve and the entire cabinet, consented to withdraw it and retain the post.

The new premier was forced to re-write the army, finance and Vatican clauses of his message, according to Liberte. The Socialists objected to Painleve's army-finance policy and the Radical Socialists refused the premier's proposal to continue the ambassador to the Vatican.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Advices from Paris to the effect that the new Painleve ministry is going to approach the problem of war debt adjustment by proposing that the United States and Great Britain accept the German reparation notes in lieu of French demand notes now held, left official Washington absolutely cold.

Such a proposition, it was explained at the treasury, has been advanced several times during the last four years of debt dickering, and always has been turned down by this government. A similar fate will meet it again if it actually is put forward by Caillaux.

"French ministries may come and go," it was stated by one official, "but the policy of the American government on this question remains fixed."

Absolute divorcement of the question of war debts from the question of reparation was laid down as an American policy early in the Harding-Hughes administration. In a series of notes to Europe, Secretary Hughes declared so far as the American government is concerned, there is no relation between the two questions and cannot be.

Sets Foundation

In this correspondence, Hughes established the foundation of the American debt policy, which was and continues to be, that the United States advanced billions of dollars to Europe on ordinary commercial paper, and as America neither sought nor obtained any share of reparations, these loans stand as ordinary obligations between governments, bearing no relation to war indemnities.

English Papers Point to Communists' Activities In Europe With Grave Fears

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, April 21.—Communist activities in Europe apparently have aroused some fears in England.

"New and desperate Bolshevik offensives are in full swing in a form which varies in accordance with the conditions of each country," the Daily Telegraph said today.

"There are murders and armed uprisings in Bulgaria and labor strikes in Greece and industrial quarrels nearer home."

Many dangerous Communists have entered England recently, the newspaper said, and secret meetings of representatives from many capitals were continuing.

"This Sofia explosion sounds very loud in our ears because the same arch-conspirators are at work against the peace of this country," the newspaper continued.

The Daily Telegraph, a usually sound publication and not given to rattling the Bolshevik skeleton, said the Communists' aim was to capture the trade union movement in England.

Attempts were made by the newspaper continued. to start an insurrection at the Serbian-Bulgarian border, but their efforts failed, newspapers here heard today.

Explosives were planted to blow up the International Express, near the border, but soldiers discovered the bomb in time to avert a disaster, it was said.

NARCOTIC BILL REACHED BY ASSEMBLY

Measure Will Provide Care In Southland, North For Dope Addicts

SACRAMENTO, April 21.—Establishment of institutions in both northern and southern California for the care and rehabilitation of narcotic addicts is provided under the Crowley bill, which was today awaiting action by the Assembly after being passed out by the Assembly ways and means committee with favorable recommendation.

The bill carries an appropriation of $200,000 to provide for the purchase of sites for the two institutions and initial work on the buildings.

Senator Lyons' bill proposing an $8,500,000 bond issue for the construction of state and university buildings also received a "do pass" recommendation from the ways and means committee. This bill, which is said to carry the support of the Richardson administration, provides as follows:

New buildings at the University of California, Berkeley, $3,000,000.

Buildings for the southern branch of the university at Beverly Hills, $3,000,000.

New state building at Los Angeles, $1,250,000.

ANOTHER WAR PREDICTED IN EUROPE

Dr. Harrower Tells Exchange Club Russian Agents Stirring Trouble

The greatest menace in the world today is Russia, Dr. Henry R. Harrower, founder of Harrower Laboratory, told members of the Glendale Exchange club today in an address on the conditions in Europe as he saw them during a six months' visit. Russia is seeking to sovietize the world, he said, and paid agitators are making trouble in many nations, using funds supplied by the soviet government.

"The attitude toward Russia that the United States has taken is the only right and proper attitude," he said. "It would be much better if other nations would take the same stand, but in Europe I found that many countries and governments over there were dealing with Russia, had recognized the soviet government, in fact, solely for the purpose of trade.

War Predicted

"There is another war coming in Europe. The recent bombing episode in Sofia was only the forerunner of great trouble. Strife is sweeping Europe today, and behind all this strife are paid agents of the Russian soviet government. The issue should be handled by the other nations of the world, but other nations are letting the matter slide in hopes it will soon straighten out unaided. It is

OUTBREAK IN BALKANS IS CAUSE OF CONCERN

Several Hundred Persons Executed and Thousands Arrested, is Rumor

The allied governments tonight turned the questioning eye on the Balkans and looked searchingly into the little kingdom of Bulgaria to determine the extent of the Communist uprising there.

Conflicting reports have reached the powers as to the gravity of the situation. An unconfirmed dispatch said several hundred persons had been executed and thousands arrested in Sofia following the bomb explosion which killed approximately 160 persons in the Svetikral cathedral there last Thursday.

International News Service dispatches directed from Sofia today told of the killing of Captain Yankoff by police and named him as the second principal in the bombing outrage. The government, the dispatches added, was in control of the situation.

The government said 500 agitators had been arrested and that "those not connected with Communistic activities have been released."

The allied governments were disinclined to view the Communistic oubreak as general in Europe, seeing it rather as a local disturbance.

Another Communist Chief Is Killed by Authorities

CONSTANTINE STEPHANOVE
For International News Service

SOFIA, April 21.—Captain Yankoff, second of the pair of Communist leaders regarded by the government as the conspirators responsible for the loss of 160 lives in the Svetikral cathedral bombing, was shot and killed by police today. His companion, Minkoff, was killed resisting arrest yesterday.

Yankoff was besieged in a house where he had taken shelter with other Communists. When officers attempted an entrance, the radicals threw bombs at them. The police replied with a volley of revolver shots, killing Yankoff.

Blamed for Bomb

It was generally believed today that Yankoff and Minkoff were responsible for placing the bomb in the belfry of the cathedral, supplemented with lesser charges of explosives in other places around the old edifice.

The Communists arrested after the fight in a cellar which resulted in Minkoff's death, proved to be emissaries of the Soviet government, the government said today. Minkoff, himself, returned from Moscow only a few weeks ago.

The Sacristan who allowed the conspirators to plant the bomb in the belfry was arrested after two days of aimless wandering. He was in a demented state, the authorities said, when he surrendered and confessed that the plotters had warned him to leave the building with them.

SECURITY AIM OF FRANCE'S MINISTRY

Painleve Outlines Desires Of New Cabinet; War Debt Explained

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service.

PARIS, April 21.—Preservation of French security and the safeguarding of his country's financial stability—these are the foremost aims of the new Painleve ministry, according to the premier's declaration to the Chamber of Deputies today. The ministerial statement which accompanied submission of the new cabinet to the Chamber of Deputies was presented this afternoon.

Despite opposition of the radical Socialists to his proposal that the French ambassador at the Vatican be continued, the premier proposed the maintenance of diplomatic representation there.

"All other problems vanish before two heavy responsibilities—first to preserve France's security; second to safeguard her financial stability," Premier Painleve's statement reads.

With France's security guaranteed and its financial problems solved, Painleve said the government would then reorganize the army which, he added, "the country urgently demands."

The premier declared that "nobody ignores the gravity of our financial situation." He said the government would introduce the 1926 budget in which all expenses would be covered by taxes and that as soon as possible the government would cease functioning as a banker.

"We are confident," he con-

15-DAY DELAY IN FILLING COUNCIL'S VACANCY

City Attorney Gives Ruling On Situation Relative To Muhleman's Letter

Glendale will have a City Council of but four members until May 5, when a successor to F. L. Muhleman, who failed to take the oath of office last night, is expected to be appointed.

While the new council could have declared his place vacant on his statement that he was not qualified to be elected, and made an immediate appointment the members of that body decided in a meeting of the committee of the whole last night to wait for fifteen days to elapse from the date on which Muhleman was notified of his election.

The former City Council, in declaring other members elected, also declared Muhleman elected. So, after the new council was sworn in last night and was seated, the city clerk called Muhleman's name on each roll call. He will continue to do so until the office is declared vacant, it was stated.

The fifteen-day period is allowed under the city charter for any city official to qualify and take the oath of office. At the end of that period he is automatically disqualified. Muhleman was notified Saturday that he had received the second highest number of votes in the recent municipal election.

Harmony Prevails

Out-going members of the City Council decided against any move to hold the position supposed to be taken by Muhleman and complete harmony prevailed at the reorganization meeting. Previous to the meeting Councilman Sam Davis announced that he had a legal ruling to the effect that he was entitled to serve until the fifteen-day period had elapsed but had decided not to avail himself of his declared right.

It is understood that S. S. Gilhuly, who retired as councilman last night, is a candidate for the appointment of councilman to fill the vacancy caused by the fact that Muhleman was not qualified to take the office. However, reports about the city hall are that Muhleman, himself, will, at the end of the fifteen days, be proposed as a candidate. It is rumored that he has enough votes pledged to secure the appoint-

New Council Will Not Make Any Changes at Present, Is Report

Administration of city affairs will continue under the incoming City Council as in the past, it was indicated today, following the swearing in of the new councilmen last night.

Only two appointments will be made. A successor must be named to succeed S. C. Kinch as member of the City Planning commission and a fifth member of the council must be selected.

CITY COUNCIL ORGANIZES AT FIRST MEETING

Large Crowd Is Present At Ceremonies; Ovation For New Chief Executive

Harry G. MacBain, for sixteen years a resident of this city, was unanimously elected mayor of Glendale at the first meeting last night of the incoming City Council.

MacBain's election was received with acclamation by one of the biggest audiences that ever packed the council chamber in the City Hall. His name was placed in nomination by C. E. Kimlin, who, with MacBain was re-elected to his seat on the council. W. F. Tower, incoming councilman, seconded the nomination.

"It is a great honor to be named mayor of Glendale, the fastest growing city in the world," said Mayor MacBain after taking the seat occupied for the past two years by retiring Mayor Spencer Robinson. "My every aim will be to serve the people of this city to the best of my ability. I have a fine lot of men on the council and in the various departments of the city with whom to work."

Oath of Office

After being sworn as city clerk by retiring Mayor Robinson, A. J. Van Wie administered the oath of office to other officers elected last Tuesday. Miss Ruth Kern, as she approached the rostrum to repeat the oath and be sworn as city treasurer, was given prolonged applause.

Other incoming officials as they raised their right hands and repeated the oath as read by Van Wie, each was given an ovation. The audience was jovial and solidly back of the new city administration. Flowers banked the desks of the councilmen and were piled high at MacBain's chair.

In rotation, MacBain followed Miss Kern to be sworn in; then Tower, S. C. Kinch and C. E. Kimlin. Followed members of the Board of Education, Eva C. Barton, Harry W. Chase, David J. Hibben and Eugene H. Learned.

Muhleman Present

When the name of F. L. Muhleman was called by Van Wie, there was no response. Muhleman, who was present in the audience, received the second highest number of votes cast for councilman, and then, according to a statement recently issued by him, discovered that he had not been a qualified elector of the city for a period of

GOVERNOR TELLS REASON FOR VETO

Message On Election Bill Is Filled With Humor; Measure Rejected

SACRAMENTO, April 21.—Governor Richardson has vetoed the election bill of Assemblyman Walter J. Schmidt which would have made it legal to place distinguishing marks on ballots where two or more candidates appeared with similar names.

Schmidt's bill provided that candidates with similar names running for the same office be given the choice of the following symbols behind their names:

A diamond, a bell, a circle, a star, an anchor or a heart. The governor waxed facetious in his message vetoing the Schmidt bill. He said:

"It is proposed when several John Smiths run for office to tag one with a mark showing a diamond, others with a bell, a star, a circle, an anchor or a heart. A man of vacuous mental equipment should have a circle.

For Honest Man

"An honest John Smith would naturally claim a diamond. A tool of the bosses would properly have a bell tagged after his name, a star political programmer would want a star. A John Smith of generous propensities should have a heart sign in red on the ballot after his name. A sailor would need an anchor.

"If more than six John Smiths ran for the same office the seventh could run as plain John Smith and others could pick out various vegetables or animals to identify themselves. Thus the voters would see an onion, a potato, a radish, a weasel, a donkey, a hyena, a monkey or other sign indicating the symbol the candidate thought most appropriate for illustrating his major propensity."

BRAVERY OF KING MAY WIN BRIDE

Report Rumanian Princess Looks With Favor On Boris' Suit Now

By CONSTANTINE STEPHANHOVE
for International News Service

SOFIA, April 21.—King Boris of Bulgaria may find happiness through the tragedies that have visited his country, it appeared today. The young ruler displayed great courage and self-possession in the attempt on his own life, followed by the assassination of General Gheorghieff and the bombing of the Svetikral cathedral. It was reported in well informed circles today that his bravery in these crises had won him great favor with Princess Ileana of Rumania and that his suit for her hand may at last be successful. Rumanian court attaches now in England in closest touch with the Princess predict she will soon consent to marry Boris.

With the arrest of 100 Agrarians and Communists, the government was confident it had broken up the ring plotting rebellion and gathered up most of those responsible for the cathedral outrage.

Had Foreign Money

Among those arrested were several well supplied with foreign money. One of the prisoners was a fashionably dressed woman, found with explosives in her baggage.

Authorities have had difficulty in preventing attacks by outraged Bulgarians on the arrested plotters. Reports of the slaying of several Communists by mobs have been received. A semi-official statement was that several of the conspirators had confessed the cathedral bombing was the work of the Agrarian-Communist party and was planned by former Officers Yankoff and Mincoff, who loaded the infernal machine which was smuggled into the cathedral belfry by the beadle. They said the plan was to kill Boris and his entire cabinet and provoke country-wide anarchy.

GLENDALE

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, April 21.—The last few days have been active ones for the corporation campaigners pro and con. Friday night, the auditorium of the schoolhouse was well filled by people listening to speakers against incorporation. Leon Carr acted as chairman. John S. Knox and Judge Breidt both spoke at length. R. L. Chacon and J. J. Harris, of Maywood, gave an account of the difficulties the newly incorporated city of Maywood has experienced, and which have led to action toward disincorporation.

Saturday night, the pro-incorporationists held a meeting at the same place. Maywood was again under discussion, and the other side of the matter was presented by Otto A. Garth, attorney, from Los Angeles.

A parade by the pro-incorporationists Monday night, followed by a final meeting at the school auditorium, concluded the pre-election campaign. A large vote is anticipated today.

Announcement is made of the organization of the Tujunga Municipal League, with Dr. H. H. Patton as president, and C. H. Conway as secretary; the object being to check up on assessments, expenditures of local funds, proposed ordinances and indebtednesses investigating candidates, and in general to constitute themselves a supervision committee of public affairs.

Twining & Myers are opening a new unit in their subdivision of the Hillhaven tract. Wonderful views are enjoyed from these lots, as they overlook Tujunga Valley on the north, and Tuna Canyon on the south.

Body Of Man Found At Natural Bridge Base

MIAMI, Ariz., April 21.—F. L. Windle of Newark, Ohio, was found dead at the base of Natural bridge, fifty miles from here. Windle left here Saturday with A. R. Weiling, apparently on a prospecting trip. A note written by Weiling was found in a shack near where Windle's body was found which said that he was going on. Although authorities believe that Windle fell from the bridge while trying to take a picture, Weiling was being sought to see if he could give any information concerning Windle's death.

RAPID TRANSIT FOR VALLEY PLANNED

Transportation Engineer To Outline Many Proposed Changes Tonight

Details of the plan to establish rapid transit from Los Angeles to Glendale and other points in the San Fernando valley will be discussed tonight by Major R. F. Kelker, jr., transportation engineer of Chicago, who conducted a rapid transit survey for the City Council and Los Angeles county Board of Supervisors. The meeting will be held at the Lankershim Community church under the auspices of the Greater San Fernando Valley association.

Major Kelker's appearance in Lankershim will be the first public expression of the engineer in which he will be privileged to divulge the important details of a rapid transit system to any particular section of Los Angeles.

Submitted to Council

The rapid transit report was submitted to the City Council and Board of Supervisors in a special session yesterday. It is considered the largest and most extensive transportation report ever submitted. It was completed by engineers working under the direction of Major Kelker and Charles E. DeLeuw, who have worked constantly on the project since May, 1924.

Major Kelker will explain in detail his plans for laying a rapid transit system into the valley and how it can be obtained easily and quickly. His opinions are considered official and civic organizations over the entire valley have withheld rapid transit action pending the outcome of his survey.

Glendale Expansion

On the Glendale and San Fernando valley lines, it is planned to improve and expand these lines by the construction of an elevated line on Glendale boulevard from a connection with the Sunset boulevard elevated to Fargo street; a third track along Alessandro street and the private right-of-way of the Pacific Electric from Fargo street to the junction of San Fernando valley line just west of the Los Angeles river; and an elevated line from the Los Angeles river to Arden junction in Glendale to replace the existing two-track surface railroad.

Another improvement to the service recommended is the addition of a Hollywood-Pasadena bus service. This bus route, starting in Hollywood, would be on Western avenue, Los Feliz boulevard, Central avenue in Glendale, Colorado avenue and Colorado street from Franklin avenue to Fair Oaks avenue in Pasadena.

At present the interurban service between the central business district and points in the western portion of San Fernando valley is provided by trains operating through Cahuenga Pass. A new line, which will reduce the traveling time between these points and at the same time provide greater service, is recommended. This line will extend northwesterly on a private right-of-way from a connection with the present Glendale line of the Pacific Electric west of the Los Angeles river to the Burbank-Chatsworth branch of the Southern Pacific and westerly to a connection with the existing Pacific Electric line at Lankershim.

'Miradero' Estate Passes To City Following Death Of His Widow

Remembering, even in death, the city that he helped found and build, Leslie C. Brand, "father of Glendale," added, by the terms of his will, his beautiful foothill home "Miradero" to the 800 acre park he recently gave to this city, according to a summary of the will made public late yesterday by John F. Feogh, vice-president of the Title Guaranty & Trust Co.

After the death of Mrs. Mary Louise Brand, widow of the Glendale pioneer, "Miradero" will become the property of the city of Glendale, to be used as a library and art museum in conjunction with Brand park and the two to be known conjointly as Brand library and park. The gift of "Miradero," like that of the extensive parksite is gratis to the city.

"Miradero," where Mr. Brand lies buried beside the remains of his father and mother, adjoins Brand park. It is surrounded by magnificent gardens and imaculately kept grounds. The residence, the winter home of Mr. Brand for many years, is spacious in size and contains many valued art treasures.

Fortune Unknown

No estimate of the fortune left by Mr. Brand is given in the summary of his will by Mr. Feogh. It is thought his fortune will aggregate several million dollars. According to the summary, the entire estate is community property,one-half automatically becoming the property of Mrs. Brand. "Miradero" will also remain in the hands of Mrs. Brand during her lifetime, going to the city of Glendale upon her death.

Relatives of the community builder, down to the children of his nieces and nephew, will be cared for in the will, Mr. Feogh said. The residue of the estate, after the deduction of Mrs. Brand's share, is divided among relatives, with but a few exceptions.

Employes Remembered

These exceptions include several "faithful employes" who are remembered in the will, and Arthur F. Morlan, vice-president of Title Guaranty & Trust Co. and lifelong friend of Mr. Brand. To this friend Mr. Brand bequeathed his summer home at Mono lake.

The remainder of the estate is left to the Guaranty Title & Trust Co. of which Mr. Brand was president during his lifetime. The title company is to hold the estate in trust, the entire income to be paid to Mrs. Brand. After her death the trust fund is to remain intact, and the income to be paid to Mrs. Brand's nieces, Mrs. Ada Dryden Thompson and Helen Andrews and to a nephew of Mr. Brand, J. C. C. Brand, share and share alike during their lives and to their children after them.

RAIL EXPERT BOOSTS CHAMBER CAMPAIGN

Southern Pacific Industrial Expert Is Urging Glendale Merchants to Get Behind Membership

"The Southern Pacific railroad saw enough in the future of Glendale to invest upward of $100,000 in development of industrial lands here. Surely business men of the city and property owners should be able to see enough in its future to invest $25 in a Chamber of Commerce membership."

This was the high point in an address by C. R. Smurr, general industrial agent of the Southern Pacific Co., and recognized as the dean of industrial experts of the southwest, before Chamber of Commerce membership campaigners at their meeting last night. Mr. Smurr stressed the important part the Chamber of Commerce can play in the industrial development of Glendale as follows:

"What is the use of spending millions of dollars on schools to educate our children, if when they leave school they must go to some other city to find employment? Glendale cannot continue to prosper as a bedroom for Los Angeles. This city must create payrolls for the thousands who now live here and the thousands more who will come. These payrolls will be spent with the Glendale merchants and will build a solid community foundation. The Glendale Chamber of Commerce has shown a more willing disposition to cooperate with industries, I believe, than any other chamber in Southern California, realizing that without an industrial backbone the city cannot continue to grow. Every citizen should back the chamber in this work to the extent of becoming a member. The work of the chamber benefits every citizen of the community."

Campaign Boosted

Mr. Smurr urged the campaign workers "not to take 'no' for an answer" in their drive to double the present membership of the chamber in five days. A large crowd of the drive captains and their workers gathered at the Harriett Mae Tea room at 6:15 o'clock last night for dinner and further instructions from Dr. T. C. Young, who is directing the campaign.

First reports from each of the seventeen teams now at work in different sections of the city will be given at the meeting at the Harriett Mae Tea room tonight. Sylvester L. Wheeler, past president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and a director of that body at the present time, will speak to the workers. Directors of the chamber will go to the dinner meeting from their board meeting in a body. Every team captain was urged by Dr. Young to attend the dinner and to bring as many of his team workers as possible with him.

Although no formal report on the work of the first day was given at the meeting last night, splendid results were reported by a number of the captains. Among those called upon by Dr. Young were V. M. Hollister, Pierson Hanning, Ray Bentley, Jesse Smith, H. M. Butts, J. M. Boland, Dr. Warren Z. Newton, D. H. Smith, George B. Karr and others.

Young Urges Pep

Dr. Young this morning stressed the important work each member of the chamber has to perform during the present membership drive. The slogan of the campaign is "every member get a member." A campaign worker will call on each present member of the chamber and will expect him to have a prospect ready to sign. Dr. Young urged that members perform this duty, as it is the only membership work they will be called upon to do during the year.

Each member should wear his yellow tag, designating him as being already on the chamber roster, Dr. Young said. A 100 per cent display of tags on the coat lapel of every member will do much to advertise the campaign, Dr. Young said.

Greater San Fernando Valley Drive Started

"A Greater San Fernando Valley—Now!"

This is the slogan adopted by the Greater San Fernando Valley association in its plans to expedite the many valley-wide major improvement projects necessary to its immediate welfare. The slogan met with the unanimous approval of the association's executive committee and many public-spirited citizens of the valley who have heard it expressed have devised various ways of sending the message to clients and friends.

"A Greater San Fernando Valley—Now!" said President A. Z. Taft of the association, "means exactly what it says to the very last letter. 'Now,' for there is no time like the present, and if we expect to gain our just dues while all of us are in a position to enjoy them we must act now."

Every resident of the valley will be called upon to join in the move to consummate the many vital problems contributing to the growth of the valley. While rapid transit and flood control are considered the most imperative, sewer, highways, parks and playgrounds are considered equally important to "A Greater San Fernando Valley—Now."

Rain Follows Sudden Cold In Glendale

Glendale's warm spring weather disappeared yesterday morning in dark gray clouds, which overhung the sky all day and resulted in .11 inch of rain falling during the late afternoon and night. The record for the season to date now stands at 9.55 inches. One year ago, according to H. E. Bartlett, observer, of 333 West Broadway, the seasonal record was 7.91 inches.

New Officers Elected To Glendale Hi-Y Club

New Officers of the Glendale Hi-Y club were elected at a meeting of the club last night. Walton Andrews was named president; Ansell Brenneman, vice-president; Willard Ball, secretary, and Robert Hamphill, treasurer. The secret ballot was used. The new officers will be installed at a banquet at the First Methodist church next Monday night when the Hi-Y boys will be hosts to the Glendale Girl Reserves.

Outgoing officers of the Hi-Y club are Robert Hatch, president; Kenneth Lee, vice-president; Lyle Wheeler, secretary, and Richard Bickenback, treasurer.

PLANNING BOARD LOSES S. C. KINCH

Newly Elected Councilman Resigns Before Taking New Office

S. C. Kinch, member of the City Planning commission for more than a year, offered his resignation from that body to the retiring City Council at its final meeting last night, a few moments before he was sworn in as a new member of the council. His resignation was accepted.

Appointment of a planning commission member to succeed Kinch will be one of the first official acts of the new City Council, it was indicated today.

Several days ago Kinch announced that he might retain his place with the planning commission, but last night he said that he believed his work as councilman will be more effective as a result of severing connections with the other city body.

No name of an appointee has been suggested yet as a probable successor to Kinch. T. W. Watson is president of the planning commission.

Text of Resignation

Kinch also notified members of the planning commission yesterday of his resignation in the following communication.

"Gentlemen, fellow members and pals:—This day I am tendering my resignation to the retiring City Council as a member of your honorable body. This is one of the most regretful duties that has ever fallen to my lot to perform.

"Our collaborations have been the most friendly and congenial in all our deliberations and, I am sure, the results we have achieved will redound to the benefit of Glendale. Your biggest problems are before you—ones that must have substantial support, and, I assure you, that as a member of the City Council I will do all in my power to give you the backing and support you must have to continue successfully.

"In closing, I want to say that I hope my successor will be a man of wisdom who will be of more help than the writer."

BRIDGE FUNDS DENIED BY COUNTY

No Money Available, County Supervisors Report On Proposed Spans

County funds for building a double bridge at Glendale boulevard and another at Fletcher drive, are not available at this time the Board of Supervisors reported yesterday afternoon when a request that $500,000 be appropriated from county highway funds to assist in the construction of the two proposed bridges over the Los Angeles river. Representatives of cities lying along Santa Monica boulevard, Foothill boulevard and in the San Fernando valley, appeared before the supervisors with the request for funds for the bridges. Monteville Flowers, well known Pasadena and Monrovia political figure, presented the request.

Only money collected in automobile taxes is available for road work within the corporate limits of cities, the supervisors ruled. All such funds for 1925 have been used they reported. In the distribution of road funds, the city of Los Angeles received its share, but this money also has been spent, it was stated.

Valley Expenses

More than $150,000 of the county road money allotted to the San Fernando valley was used for road work at the upper end of the valley, little or none has been spent in the vicinity of Glendale, it was pointed out.

The refusal of the supervisors to grant the request for bridge funds came as a distinct surprise to advocates of the bridge projects that both Supervisor Henry Wright of this district and Supervisor Cogswell from the San Gabriel valley, stood pledged to support the bridge program as an important link in the through highway from the desert to the sea.

L. T. Rowley, Glendale representative on the delegation that appeared before the supervisors yesterday and chairman of the highways and bridges committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce was optimistic over the final outcome of the bridge controversy today. He said indications that the entire amount necessary for the two bridges will be placed on the June ballot in Los Angeles and will be voted as a strictly Los Angeles city issue, are very good.

Present Plans

Present plans for a double bridge at Glendale boulevard, connecting with Hyperion way and the main road into Los Angeles, call for the expenditure of $900,000. The Fletcher drive bridge, of major importance to Pasadena and cities of the San Gabriel valley in affording them a through thoroughfare to Santa Monica boulevard, will cost in the neighborhood of $300,000.

It was expected that the county would bear at least part of this cost and that the remainder would be raised in the form of a Los Angeles city bond issue. With refusal of the supervisors to co-operate in the plan, all the money will have to come through the bond issue.

RESPECT FOR FLAG

New York Police Commissioner Enright has issued an order to all patrolmen to enforce respect for the flag. They are given pamphlets instructing them as to the display and use of the flag and the procedure for paying it due respect. Arrests are to be made if necessary.

It has often been said that it is impossible to legislate morality and religion into a people, neither can they be forced by law to be patriotic and loyal to country. But they can and should be forced to show outward respect for the flag which is the symbol of our freedom.

The preaching of internationalism, the reaction from the war when many people used the flag as a cloak for disloyalty and the general growing disrespect for things that were formerly considered sacred has brought about a feeling that it is old-fashioned to be patriotic, just as it is out-of-date to be religious. Preach internationalism all you will, but the one who does not love his own country and respect his own flag will not be a very loyal world patriot.

A Harvard university publication was suppressed by the authorities the other day because the illustration on the cover in which the flag was used was a caricature of the scene, Washington crossing the Delaware.

We do not wish to glorify war and we believe that too much thought is being given to possible future wars, but it will be a sorry day for us when we forget those who fought and died for us in the past and when we no longer teach our children how we won our freedom and our flag and how we have maintained our national integrity.

We may expect ingratitude and disloyalty in some quarters, but we do not expect to find them among the students of a great university that has been one of our national institutions since the very earliest days of our history. We expect students of Harvard to be analytical and capable of accounting for the privileges they enjoy as American citizens.

It is very easy to point to mistakes and faults in government as an excuse for lack of respect for the flag or disloyalty to country, but when more of us respect our country and our flag deeply and sincerely, our government will be more worthy of respect.

We cannot compel the loyalty of any citizen, but due respect for the flag can and should be enforced.

WAR ON SIGNS

California is lagging behind some of the other states in the Union in the matter of clearing the highways of the disfiguring advertising signs. Illinois and Texas are making some progress in this matter, but in California it seems like such a hopeless task that the people are not to be blamed for sidestepping, even though our highways are one of our greatest assets, and to keep them free from defacement means more to us than it would to those in some other states. The Legislature has no power and the advertising concerns have built up such wonderful organizations and are so firmly entrenched that they will not be budged from their stronghold until they are literally driven out.

One of the large outdoor advertising concerns recently won a suit in Pittsburgh, securing a decision that the city has no right by ordinance to forbid the display of signs on private property adjacent to streets. The same is true outside of cities. Neither supervisors nor legislators have any control over property lying along the road and action cannot be taken against signs on private property unless they become dangerous, damage other property or violate the rights of others.

Property owners cannot be blamed for welcoming this source of revenue, for often the land is lying idle and the signs in themselves are usually attractive to a greater or less degree. The objection to them arises from the fact that they detract from the natural beauty and the views from our highways.

"The best attack upon the sign is an educational one," says the San Bernardino Sun, "an appeal to civic and state pride, an argument that beautiful highways increase the value of property and are a considerable factor in 'selling' the state and the community to strangers. When citizens generally understand that the ugly sign does them personal damage as citizens and property owners they will be more ready to cease to use them. Progress has been made in arousing sentiment against the roadside sign. If it becomes strong enough it might lead the courts to take the advanced view that signs are contrary to the public welfare and therefore may be forbidden by the police power of the state."

WHY TAX REDUCTION?

Someone asks why the excess profits taxes reduced a year ago have not been distributed among the consumers in a corresponding reduction of prices of commodities. There has been no appreciable lowering of prices on standard commodities.

The consumer who pays as much or more for food products than he did a year ago is apt to wonder why, since the excess profits tax which the stockholders of the factories, the canneries and the packing houses had to pay are no longer due the government, and, therefore, dividends need not be so high nor profits so great, making it possible to lower selling prices.

If prices are to stay up even though taxes are reduced, the average man will not be greatly interested in tax reduction. The man who pays an income tax has benefited slightly, otherwise the average person would never know there had been tax revision a year ago.

AMERICA AND EUROPE

A European critic says that American drama is a failure. And an American producer just returned from Europe says, "America is so far ahead of Europe, with respect to the theatre, that it is futile even to strike a balance." The European deprecates the inartistic seriousness of American plays and the superficiality of American audiences. The American criticises the over-seriousness of European audiences, the scenery and the frequent foisting of understudies in the acting.

Of course, both are right. America and Europe have different standards in theatres, as in everything else. A high-class European house contains ancestral portraits, rare old furniture and dignity. The same class of house in America would be well heated, perfectly lighted, contain "modern" plumbing and new, crude furniture and pictures.

Wonder what a Mexican bandit leader thinks of an American mob leader.

Riverfronts

By DR. FRANK CRANE

June Mansfield writes that the riverfront is the last too-awful street of a great city. "It is the jumping-off place. Pay no heed to the saloons. Their day of splendor has flown. See the boarded windows and the envious rents. All sounds long since dissipated in thin air. Thirteen saloons and a few cafes, end on end, down a canyoned street. That's a waterfront. And a waterfront is nothing more than a back yard, a place where refuse is thrown, where the shards coagulate."

It is a fact that has often been observed that a waterfront of an American city is about the least inviting part of the town.

The city seems to back up its rear quarters to the river or lake or sea.

You find huts there, or dives, or low stores, railroads, and possibly vacant lots with tin cans.

The waterfront is always a hard place to get to. The roads are unkempt.

A peculiar class of people seem to inhbait the waterfront. They are not of the best variety. In fact, you speak of them as "water rats."

Why does the waterfront seem to attract this kind of men and this kind of stores?

It ought to be the best part of the city. It ought to be covered with greensward and adorned with the most beautiful residences. On the contrary, you find the good-looking residences back from the river, in an inland part of the town.

For some reason Park Avenue, over the New York Central Railroad, has outdistanced Riverside Drive as a residential center. Yet the Riverside is far more attractive than Park Avenue.

Perhaps the reason lies in the fact that living along the waterfront is too easy. People can lie around all day and catch a few fish and manage to eke out an existence.

Back in the land the struggle is fiercer and develops a sturdier quality of human being.

It is the same reason that a more languid type of humanity is found in the tropics than in the temperate and northern zones.

Mankind seems to require some obstacles. If it cannot get them it becomes flabby.

If the wind never tore at the young tree the oak would not grow strong and sturdy.

One should not go to look for obstacles and not voluntarily place them on the road of anyone else, but they should be welcome when they are presented to us by fate.

Horoscope

Astrologers forecast this as an unimportant day in which there are no aspects that are especially auspicious. Early in the morning Neptune is slightly adverse.

It is not a very favorable day for travel, but not threatening in its omens.

Storms at sea are indicated and many accidents on the Atlantic may be expected, loss of cargoes being indicated.

Education comes under a strongly benefic influence for the entire spring, for college alumni are to be most fortunate in finding vocations, it is prephesied.

Gossip and even scandal may be prevalent from this time on, for there will be an inclination to believe the worst even among the best of us.

The seers warn that many moral obliquities will develop under the planetary government which is believed to encourage strange and unnatural human vagaries.

It is well for both men and women to guard all the avenues to their brains, for much insidiously corrupting literature will be read and exploited as indicative of real genius.

Symbolism and the analysis of deep-seated impulses will be discussed widely in the coming months when strange theories regarding the real meaning of short hair fashions for women will be announced.

Interest in gardening is to be marked in all parts of the country and flowers will be in greater demand than ever before, it is prophesied.

Water should be drunk in large quantities wherever it can be guaranteed as pure, astrologers declare, for it benefits in spiritual as well as physical ways.

Crimes are to continue numerous in all parts of the United States all through the summer, but there are to be civic protests in many places and they will lead to sensational campaigns for protection of life and property, it is foretold.

All the year round political activity is presaged for the country, which is to have extraordinary and unexpected sensations.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of routine experiences that should be peaceful and happy.

Children born on this day probably will have successful but uneventful careers. These subjects of Taurus generally have the push and determination that commands victory over life's obstacles.

Today's Poem

TO THE FRINGED GENTIAN

Thou blossom bright with autumn dew,
And colored with the heaven's own blue,
That openest, when the quiet light
Succeeds the keen and frosty night.

Thou comest not when violets lean
O'er wandering brooks and springs unseen,
Or columbines, in purple dressed,
Nod o'er the ground-bird's hidden nest.

Thou waitest late, and com'st alone,
When woods are bare and birds are flown,
And frosts and shortening days portend
The aged year is near his end.

Then doth thy sweet and quiet eye
Look through its fringes to the sky,
Blue—blue—as if that sky let fall
A flower from its cerulean wall.

I would that thus, when I shall see
The hour of death draw near to me,
Hope, blossoming within my heart,
May look to heaven as I depart.
—William Cullen Bryant.

LIVESTOCK PRICES

FORT WORTH, April 21.—Prices for livestock have advanced gradually in the last two months, sales have been satisfactory and heavy shipments have moved to market. Pasturage, however, is scarce and the outlook for late summer and fall is not promising. Stocking of herds will cease unless further heavy rains fall soon.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

The 150th anniversary of the beginning of the American Revolution, and the present state of things in Russia, jointly call to mind some observations of Edmund Burke upon government. Burke, courageous defender of the rights of the American colonies in the English parliament, defined government as a contrivance of human wisdom to provide for human WANTS.

Men have a natural right to insist that these wants be provided for by this wisdom, he believed.

Among wants he reckoned the want, out of civil society, of a sufficient restraint upon their passions.

"Society requires not only that the passions of individuals should be subjected, but even in the mass and body, as well as in the individuals, the inclinations of men should frequently be controlled and their passions brought into subjection.

"This can only be done by a power out of themselves; and not, in the exercise of its function, subject to that will and to those passions which it is its office to bridle and subdue.

"In this sense the restraints on men, as well as their liberties, are to be reckoned among their rights."

But, Burke knew, as the liberties and restrictions vary with times and circumstances, and admit of infinite modifications, they cannot be settled by any abstract rule.

However, it is clear that the moment you abate anything from the full rights of men, each to govern himself, and suffer any artificial, positive limitations upon those rights, from that moment the whole organization of government becomes a consideration of CONVENIENCE.

Burke allowed that whatever each man can separately do, without trespassing on others, he has a right to do for himself; and he has a right to a fair portion of all which society, and its combinations of skill and force, can do in his favor. In this partnership all men have equal rights; but NOT TO EQUAL THINGS.

As Burke explained it, "He that has but five shillings in the partnership has as good a right to it as he that has five hundred pounds to his larger proportion. But he has not a right to an equal dividend in the product of the joint stock; and as to the share of power, authority and direction which each individual ought to have in the management of the state, that I must deny to be amongst the original rights of man in civil society."

One of the fundamentals of civil society is that no man should be judge in his own cause. By this each person has at once divested himself of the first right of uncovenanted man, that is, to judge for himself, and to assert his own cause. He abdicates all right to be his own governor. He inclusively, in a great measure, abandons the right of self-defense, the first law of nature.

Men cannot enjoy the rights of an uncivil and a civil state together. That he may obtain justice, he gives up his right of determining what it is in points most essential to him. That he may secure some liberty, he makes surrender in trust of the whole of it.

Timely Views

Urging effort to "prevent further dissipation of national resources in preparation for wars," expenditures which he characterized as "preparations for a fresh descent into hell," Viscount Lee of Fareham, former first lord of the British admiralty and England's delegate with the Earl of Balfour to the Washington naval disarmament conference, the holding of which was largely due to his initiative, said in a recent address in Philadelphia that he believes the time ripe for another peace conference.

But he warned against attempting too much, saying that he believed it impracticable to discuss at present either reduction of land forces or control of air power. He urged agreement, however, against the use of submarines.

"The submarines came within an ace of ruining our cause," said Viscount Lee. "But we who possess the strongest equipment of submarines have offered to take them all out in the ocean and sink them. We have forbidden the Germans to have any submarines. Then what danger are we preparing for if we keep on having submarines? Are we preparing weapons against one another? That would be tragic folly. I used to teach my students of military science:

"'If you wish peace, prepare for war.' But I'm not so sure about now, reflecting on what happened in Germany.

"To attempt as wide a scope as in the last conference at Washington would get us nowhere, and would lead to bad blood. We should deal only with matters that can be isolated from the general mass. Land disarmament is too bitter and contentious a question. Besides, large armies can be improvised. I doubt the practicability of limiting, effective, air forces. Commercial air development, which is closely related, must necessarily go on. Only in naval matters would a conference be useful.

"There is no use calling a conference without some understanding beforehand. The Hughes scheme came as a complete surprise to all the delegations. But that dramatic stroke could not be repeated."

Discussing other matters, Viscount Lee declared that Great Britain is "more democratic than you are . . . our government can be turned out any hour, so we must keep a close eye on the wishes of the people."

Also, he pleaded that the United States should send other nations different motion pictures from the sort now prevailing.

"In thirty years of visiting in America," he said, "I've never seen any social life such as these films picture—at least, not in any circle to which I have been admitted. Yet, unsuspecting Englishmen think them true pictures of how you live at home."

Viscount Lee emphasized that he spoke on conference problems as a man who holds no office.

Soldier Of Fortune Is Discovered Dead

SAN DIEGO, April 21.—Captain David J. Gilmour, globe trotter, soldier of fortune, decorated by the British government for conspicuous gallantry during the World war, is a suicide here. The soldier hero's body was found in a clump of bushes a few miles north of Ti Juana with two bullet holes in the head, apparently self inflicted, Coroner Kelly said.

CAMP QUOTA IN ONE COUNTY IS PASSED

Unusual Opportunity Offered Youths For Month Of Real Training

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.
Special to the Evening News.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—Solano county, is the first in California to go over its quota for the Del Monte Citizens' Military Training camp July 21 to August 19. Every county and city has a quota and if the youth of the community does not respond quickly, Solano and other lively centers of patriotism are going to get more than their share.

Los Angeles county is lagging behind in approved candidates for Del Monte and Fort Winfield Scott. Perhaps, there are many young men who would like to attend who do not realize the wonderful opportunity at little or no cost afforded them for an ideal month's vacation training in military tactics, the same as afforded officers during the World war.

Governor's Message

The United States army has adopted the summer camp method of maintaining a personnel of young men ready for officering its population. It is a popular program, as evidenced by the following message from Governor Friend W. Richardson to Major General Charles T. Menoher, commander of the militia forces of California and seven other western states, comprising the Ninety-first Division:

"In regard to the Citizens' Military Training camps I want to assure you that it has my sincere approval as well as that of the adjutant general. The movement will teach the young men of the state habits of neatness, promptness and bodily welfare and will inculcate in them self reliance and self confidence which are necessary in forming character of future citizens. I will be glad to help you in any way and commend you for the good work you are doing."

The Glendale committeemen who will be glad to give local young men application blanks are Major C. L. Wyman, 430 Piedmont place, or Gil A. Cowan of The Glendale Evening News staff. Get in touch with them at once.

sliding, all right, but the wrong way.

"France is up against things, too. If I were given over to predicitions, I would say that the French franc will be worth about two cents in American money before the end of the year. France is in a bad way, financially and politically. To me it looks as though France would try to follow the example of Germany in printing reams of paper francs. Germany, everybody recalls, ruined their own people in order to wiggle out of a bad mess.

Spanish King Doomed

"Another prediction, if I am a prophet, would be that within the year Spain will not have a king. There will be a change of government, and another member of royalty will be looking for a soft place on which to land. Fine idea, that of asking the king of Spain to visit California. It will be mighty nice for the king.

"I spent some time in Ireland, and there learned that many of the Irish people were leaving the country as another revolution is expected. The treason bill, now before the Dail, has divided the country into two strongly fortified political camps.

"England's greatest trouble at the present time is the government dole. The laboring classes in England lack the incentive to work that people in the United States possess. Perhaps it is due to the doles the government pays the unemployed. In my estimation, the doles are a great detriment to the future of Great Britain, for it can not continue forever, and when an attempt is made to stop it, there will be trouble.

Has Franklin Bust

"Such a situation has arisen in England. I found that England's greatest trouble was the need of more work and less talk."

Dr. Harrower exhibited at the luncheon, which was held at the Masonic temple, a bronze bust of Benjamin Franklin, made in France from the original statue executed by Houdon in Paris in 1778 when Franklin was ambassador to France. The bronze cast was picked up by Dr. Harrower in an antique shop at Cannes, France, and shipped to Glendale by way of the Panama canal. President William Baker presided at the luncheon.

H. C. Schumacher was presented with a loving cup from the club for Henry Schumacher, Jr., born last Tuesday. President Baker announced a trip around the Long Beach harbor on Friday, sponsored by the Los Angeles and Long Beach clubs. Twelve members of the Glendale club will attend the state convention at Santa Barbara on May 15, 16 and 17. George Orgibet was named chairman of the new survey committee and will select two others

Geraldine Keller presented two dances. Secretary Harris of the Riverside club spoke on the charter night celebration at Riverside next Saturday night. Carl Christy reported the attendance since the contest was started has averaged 85 per cent. R. E. Johnston outlined plans for a weekly bulletin to be put out by the club.

tinued, "of the country's support of a just and democratic tax which we will accept to legislate and enforce."

"It is a bitter disillusionment for France, seven years after a victorious war, to undergo such worries as she now suffers. But we wish to face the facts."

"Illusory Hopes"

Painleve criticised the preceding government's obstinate hope of obtaining unrealizable reparations and rejecting possible solutions.

"The country is tired of illusory hopes," he said. "Its universal suffrage has made known its sovereign desire for peace in security and in respect and the maintenance of treaties in a regime of economic stability and fiscal justice.

"These wishes were inspired by the Herriot government. These will be our guide."

War Debt Policy

A forerunner of the new French attitude regarding its debts to America and England was given when he said:

"In coming to international negotiations the government intends to develop the execution of the Dawes plan and at the same time settlement of the inter-allied debts which weigh heavily on our policy and our credit.

"But above all, we will attempt to increase the guarantees of peace and security between the peoples who yesterday were bound together in battle."

Touching again on security, Painleve said:

"The first condition for stable peace is that France herself should be secure."

He endorsed the Geneva protocol, which he said, was the first step toward a great international peace pact. France, he said, "wished to develop all organizations of authority and work of the League of Nations."

In conclusion, Painleve said:

"If you have no faith in us then holding fast to the helm of the ship of state, then give us credit, give us time to act. Judge us on results.

"If you have not care in us then hand over the destiny of the country to others, because the hour is too serious for delays or evasions."

Gilhuly's "Rights"

To increase the cross word political puzzle occasioned by the fact that Muhleman is not eligible to office comes the rumor today that Gilhuly is still a councilman of the city of Glendale. It is claimed that, being sixth in the race for one of the five positions on the council, he is entitled to a seat and has a legal right to protest against the city clerk's calling the name of Muhleman on the roll call.

It is said that if Gilhuly permits the council roll to be called with Muhleman's name he will lose his legal standing as a councilman. All of which is submitted as one of the many rumors going the political rounds.

Attorney's Opinion

An opinion by City Attorney Ray Morrow, on which the council decision was based, follows:

"Honorable City Council,
"Glendale, Calif.

"Gentlemen:—With reference to the situation created by the letter filed by Frank L. Muhleman, stating that he considers himself disqualified at the recent election, I desire to advise you as follows:

"The failure of a candidate elected as a councilman to qualify creates a vacancy in the council which shall be filled by a majority vote of the remaining members of the council.

"Under the charter of the city of Glendale, a councilmn elect must qulify within fifteen days from the time his certificate of election is mailed or delivered to him, or the office becomes vacant. While it is true Mr. Muhleman has declared himself legally unable to qualify, if the appointment of the fifth member of the council is delayed until the fifteen day period has elapsed, there can be no possible question on the legality of the action of the council in filling the vacancy after that time. The four members who are in a position to qualify will constitute a quorum and constitute the City Council, though of course they must fill the vacancy within a reasonable time.

Election Legal

"Rumors printed in local newspapers that the whole election might be declared illegal are entirely without legal foundation.

"The person appointed to fill the vacancy will serve until his successor is elected at the next general municipal election in 1927.

"The purpose of the provision of the charter that elective officers shall serve until their successors are elected and qualified is, in the case of the council, to prevent a condition whereby the city might be without a legislative body qualified to act. A sufficient number of councilmen having been properly and duly elected and qualified to constitute a valid council, the retiring councilman and each of them are relieved of the duty of serving after the four newly elected councilmen have taken office at 8 o'clock Monday.

"Respectfully,
"RAY L. MORROW,
City Attorney."

In the meantime Muhleman's name is on the roster of councilmen. At last night's meeting his name was called for the inauguration ceremony, and on all roll calls. At tomorrow's session City Clerk A. J. Van Wie will be required to call Muhleman's name, and at all other sessions until after the fifteen-day period required by the city charter has elapsed. But Muhleman will not respond.

Muhleman, in his letter asking that he be released from taking the oath of office, said that he had not been a qualified elector in Glendale for one year next preceding the date of election, as required by the charter.

There can be no contest of the entire election because of the fact that Muhleman was not qualified to be a candidate for City Council, according to Morrow's opinion to the council members. Rumors that the election might be declared illegal are without "legal foundation," he declared.

There was no indication today whether the fifth member of the council will be selected by appointing Muhleman or from the list of defeated candidates at the recent election, or whether an outside man will be selected.

S. A. Davis has set at rest reports that he was being considered for the appointment by his public statement during the council session last night that he "does not want" any appointment.

Thieves Jack Up Car To Steal Tire, Rim

Thieves jacked up an automobile owned by William McQueen, 344 North Cedar street, as it was parked at Winchester avenue and San Fernando road last last night, and removed a tire and rim from the machine, according to a report made to the police here today.

An automobile owned by Mrs. F. W. Filtzer, 2063½ Yosemite drive, Eagle Rock, was stolen from in front of 128 North Brand boulevard shortly before 11 o'clock last night, she reported to the police.

It seemed fairly well established that the attack on King Boris two days before the cathedral catastrophe was engineered by bandits who came from Serbia.

The government today officially denied reports of wholesale executions following the bombing of the Svetikral cathedral. It was stated there were no rebellious outbreaks justifying such strenuous steps.

SUGAR DROPS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—Refiners have lowered the price of granulated cane sugar to $6.40 per hundred following a decline in the raw market. Raws are selling here at less than $4.90. This is attributed to pressure of a big Cuba crop. The low price last year was $6.80.

ORVILLE HARROLD ORPHEUM'S STAR

Lyric Tenor With Daughter Headlines Keith Bill On Broadway

Patience is rewarded. No matter how long you must wait for a seat at the Orpheum this week you will be compensated many times over. This week's show takes its place with the rest of the high-quality bills which have made the Orpheum the haven of theatre-goers.

Orville Harrold has no trouble at all holding down the headline spot. His clear and finely modulated voice held his audience. He was ably assisted by his daughter Patti, whose brilliant work shone especially in the duets. It is indeed a pleasure to listen to artists such as Orville and Patti Harrold.

Then comes Georgie Jessel with two cute girls who enhance his act with singing and dancing. Jessel is clever and everybody realizes it before the act is half over. And if you want foolishness just see Emil Boreo who is without a peer as a pure unadulterated nut.

Coscia and Verdi

Coscia and Verdi went over big with their violin and cello comedy act. Dick Henderson delights with his voice. And if you want dancing Eillen Schofield is real stuff. Her ensemble of male steppers is good. Gattison Jones and Elsie Elliott are making all those who like to walk out on the last act stick in their seats.

Herbert's leaping canines raise the curtain and as everybody went out they all remarked that a more entertaining or diversified show never was given at the Orpheum.

FARMER TURNS ON 'GLOOM' TOO SOON

Midwest Finds Pessimism Is Unwarranted As Outlook Grows Brighter

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Farmers and merchants in the middle west turned on the gloom sooner than was warranted by recent repressing developments, according to recent dispatches here. Not so bad as painted, is the way many financial authorities describe the situation.

Grain is now considerably under the $2 a bushel market. But a year ago at this time wheat was selling at around $1.04 a bushel for all deliveries. May now is around 45 cents a bushel over prices of a year ago with July over 35 cents higher and September more than 30 cents up. Men in the wheat belt estimate that it requires $1.30 wheat to be profitable to the farmer.

Corn now is quoted around $1.10 a bushel whereas a year ago the leading deliveries at this time were ranging between 78 and 80 cents. It is true that the high point for corn this year was $1.38½ for July and September and $1.37⅞ for May. But just as happened with wheat, the tremendous run up in prices did not affect the farmer greatly and neither has the following drop, since his grain is not yet matured. If corn and wheat will stay around present prices the farmer probably will make an excellent profit.

Oats Remains Same

Oats are about the same price or a little lower than at this date last year when they sold for 44 cents a bushel for July and 40 cents for September. The highs in oats of course were reached earlier and ranged from 66¾ for May delivery and 61 for September. Farmers anticipate a far better crop of wheat and corn this summer than in 1924 and if prices can be kept anywhere around present levels, they count on having fairly good returns for the first time since the war.

The final results of the crops of various states depend wholly on weather and other conditions. But there seem indications that wheat will not suffer reductions in price, immediately at least. Kansas is expected to have at least 8,000,000 acres in wheat which will develop for harvest out of the 10,500,000 planted, with a probable return of better than 16 bushels an acre.

Missouri Wheat

Missouri wheat condition is 86 per cent of normal and experts forecast the crop from the 2,347,000 acres sown at 24,743,000 bushels or around 150,000 bushels more than in 1924. Colorado winter wheat is 87 percent of normal and production is estimated at 25,594,000 bushels, as contrasted with 15,954,000 last year. The condition of Iowa wheat is up to the 10 year average. The Texas grain crop has been aided by some good rains.

Livestock prices are at a level which would seem to assure a profit. There are approximately 12,000,000 fewer swine on farms now than a year ago, a drop of 18 percent. The 54,234,000 hogs remaining are estimated to have a value of $669,402,000 now as compared with $644,496,000 a year ago. With corn around $1, a bushel and hogs bringing in the neighborhood of $13, the ten to 1 ratio between hog prices and corn prices is established so as to assure a profit on hogs.

Cattle are bringing somewhere around $24.49 as a mid-west market average. This compares with $25.06 last year. There are 39,609,000 cattle on the farms which have an estimated value of $970,000,000. This is a drop from the $1,045,743,000 total of last year.

Sheep Increase

Sheep have increased to a total of 39,134,000 as compared with 38,300,000 last April while their value on the hoof has risen from $7.87 to $9.53 which means a gain of over $71,000,000 to the growers. In addition, wool has risen and a tremendous percentage of the growers have sold their clips in advance at high prices so that they cannot be hurt by any subsequent drop in wool prices.

Taking it all in all, with both grain and livestock higher than a year ago, the outlook for the midwestern farmer is much more favorable despite recent slumps. The farmer last year did not sell his grain at the extraordinary high prices finally reached, so that his real situation depends on what happens between now and fall.

There is no indication the farmer is discouraged. Implement houses are rushing him shipments and implement accessories are in big demand. Despite the fact farm labor is slightly more plentiful this year, wages in some sections of the mid-west are higher. Farm hands in Colorado and parts of Nebraska are getting $38 and board, or $58.50 without board.

Sherman Indians Will Welcome Paavo Nurmi

RIVERSIDE, April 21.—Desiring to demonstrate the good feeling they possess for the mighty Paavo Nurmi, twenty Sherman Indian school athletes, among them being the eight runners who will oppose the Finn in the Coliseum in Los Angeles next Saturday, and a number of girl students, will greet Nurmi's train when it passes through San Bernardino next Wednesday. A big floral horseshoe and a huge salver of choice fruit will be presented to the Phantom Finn, along with a chorus of "tervetloa Nurmi," the Indians having mastered the translation from Finnish of "welcome."

WOMEN 'PLOT' TO GRAB SENATE JOB

National League Convention Turns Into Oldtime Political Rally

By EDNA MARSHALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

RICHMOND, Va., April 21.—The National league of women voters officially may be just a nonpartisan organization, aiming to promote world peace and to teach women to vote, but its sixth annual convention, now in session here, is developing rapidly into an old fashioned political rally on the side, for a governmental sisterhood.

Albeit, the six-day program as announced, includes everything but politics, the women have taken their places and have made plans to put their funds into the reigning post, into secret and informal gatherings in corners of the lobby of the hotel Jefferson and in the streets without. Plots already are under way to grab the jobs of almost all the senators who finish their terms in the fall of 1927, and other officials whose terms will soon expire.

Down with Senator William McKinley and up with Julia Lathrop of Rockford, Ill., is the slogan adopted today by a group of women from that state. And the Pennsylvania women aim to add another office to the Gifford Pinchot family by sending the wife of Pennsylvania's governor to the House of Representatives.

Universal Grudge

The grudge against the men is not a private one at all. It is admitted everywhere. But the men must fall, they say, to make room for the women.

A grand entrance into the senate is being planned on a most sweeping scale. Among the women whose causes are being pleaded by their cohorts here are Mary Garrett Hay, of New York City, to succeed Senator James W. Wadsworth; Mrs. George Gellhorn, of St. Louis, to replace Senator Seldon Spencer, Mrs. Parker Maddox, of San Francisco, to replace Senator Samuel Shortridge; Mrs. Richard Edwards, of Peru, Ind., to replace Senator James Watson; Miss Olive Colton, of Toledo, Ohio, to replace Senator Frank Willis; Mrs. Samuel Henning, of Louisville, Ky., against Senator Richard Ernst; Mrs. Walter Shockley, of Reno, Nev., against Senator Tasker Oddie; and Miss Adele Clark, of Richmond, against Senator Claude A. Swanson.

Then Mrs. Solon Jacobs, of Birmingham, Ala., is being talked of for lieutenant governor and commissioner of her own city. And Mrs. Charles R. Bricken, of Montgomery, Ala., has admitted that she'd like to run for the state assembly.

Probable Candidates

The women being talked of are among the best known of the league. One of them, Miss Lathrop, was chosen recently as one of twelve most famous women in America. Most of the women were suffrage workers in the days before the 19th Amendment and since have been organizers and workers of the League of Women Voters.

Each has been approached with the question, "Will you run if we root for you?" and each except Mrs. Pinlhot, has shyly hung her head.

"You see it's this way—the women who have run and not been elected have not been quite the right sort to hold down the jobs," said Mrs. Solon Jacobs.

"I suppose it's up to some of the others to be candidates and lose, for the sake of making the world sure that women are going to keep their word to enter politics—and rule.

FLAPPER COLLEGE GIRL IN POLITICS

Bobbed-Hair Delegates To Women's Voters League Meet Have Say

RICHMOND, Va., April 21.—Flapper politician, bobbed hair, boyishly garbed, blithely smiling and self assured, launching herself straight from college into the erstwhile peaceable ranks of the National League of Women Voters, has raised the biggest question so far tackled by the league convention here.

The 75 young women who have come from some fifty well known schools and colleges to tell the league what's wrong with it were cordially invited, it is true. But now that they have come and spread about a hint of what they have to say, the problem arises: How much shall the women leaders stand?

Already certain of the delegates who ventured to inquire why the big get-out-the-vote campaign, inaugurated for last fall's election failed, have heard themselves panned to a fare you well. And already it has been decided that "the college delegation" shall not sit in the big convention hall en masse, but shall be divided among the various state groups.

"You can't tell what they might say, if they sat there an army strong," one delegate explained.

The original idea was excellent, everyone admits: letting the girls come to hear their elder sisters talking of how to improve politics by getting people to vote and giving them a chance to voice their personal opinion on why the recent effort to bring the country to the polls fell through.

Flappers' Idea

But with the advance suggestions of what they may say at the meeting arranged for them, some delegates have confessed to stage fright. From the first arrivals, the young voters-to-be have agreed that the trouble with the women of the league is that they are—well, not antiquated, but something almost the same.

They've done excellent work—oh, yes. And they deserve all the credit in the world for what they've done to get women the vote, and teach them to use it. But they know their politics too well. The whole political game is so old and clear to them that they can't seem to remember that about five per cent of the population speaks or thinks in their terms, while some 95 per cent of it thinks in terms of factories, or laundry tubs, or old fashioned monkey wrenches.

One element, including those who have played the game and wearied of the sport, and those who "believe in the power of youth," is strong for giving the affairs of nation's government, as far as women have a say, over to the earnest young visitors and their contemporaries. But another, the fighters, who have battled and bled and still believe that people must be educated up to understanding public affairs instead of having the leaders talk down to them, are experiencing a rising ire.

"We've tried and so we know. We'll teach our way," they reply.

NEW ENGLAND IS RADIO'S GENEVA

Hartford, Conn., Selected As Universal Center At Conference

By ROBERT MACK
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Selection of Hartford, Connecticut, as the Geneva of the world of radio is a tribute to the remarkable achievements of the American amateur.

By a unanimous vote the radio amateurs of the world, in session at Paris, have formed a world-wide organization and have chosen for its headquarters the New England city, home of the American Radio Relay league and the residence of Hiram Percy Maxim, its president.

Faced with gradually diminishing privileges—the reduction of wave lengths, the imposition of quiet hours and the limitations of power—the American amateur has taken what has been given by the government, "the worthless wave lengths," and made himself heard around the world on them.

In this connection it is interesting to recall the request of Mr. Maxim at the third annual radio conference.

Amateur's Wish

"We amateurs ask for no additional wave bands beyond those that have already been given us," the veteran inventor said. "All we desire is to be permitted to continue the use of the bands we now occupy, to continue to produce contributions to radio science and to continue to perfect large numbers of young men in radio telegraphic communication."

Since that time the low wave lengths—"worthless" they were called then—have been explored by the amateurs working through the radio relay league, with such success that these "hams" today are recognized by their fellows as world leaders in their field.

The American Radio Relay league today boasts of 20,000 members.

New models of small, light portable receivers, are being prepared by several of the leading radio manufacturers of the country. The portables, it is said, will be considerably lighter than any of those perfected last year and are made up in a much more compact form. This new portable appears to be about the only important spring development that will emanate from the radio factories.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, April 21.—The Magnolia Park district has petitioned the Burbank Board of Education for an eight-room school building. As a result, plans for addition of four rooms to the Abraham Lincoln school have been held up for further consideration, as the Magnolia Park school, it is believed, will draw a number of students from the Lincoln school.

The Optimist club, recently formed in Burbank, is still feeling its way around in search of the definite character of community work which the club will espouse as its objective.

Len Donnell, Los Angeles, was fined $50 by Judge Crawford after he pleaded guilty to a charge of transporting liquor. A similar charge against Dorothy Cordova was dismissed. C. B. Anthony, charged with reckless driving, failed to appear for trial and his $25 bail was ordered forfeited.

Mrs. Clyde Fainot of Cypress avenue entertained members of the Neighborhood club at her home. Vocal music was furnished by Mrs. Philip Keller. Mrs. Jack Forsyth will entertain the club in two weeks.

Mrs. E. Mintey of Santa Anita avenue has received word of the death of her grandmother, Mrs. E. Hiscock, who died at her home in Hampshire, Eng., at the age of 89 years. Mrs. Mintey's mother of Hampshire is seriously ill.

Murphy Comedians Get Ovation Opening Night

The old S. R. O. sign greeted late comers Sunday night at the Murphy Comedians' Tent near Burbank, according to R. T. Mahurin, manager, who reported the opening one of the most successful in the history of the Murphy Comedians. The tent, seating 1800 people, was filled, while a long line of cars filled with theatre-goers blocked traffic on San Fernando road in an effort to reach the tent before curtain time.

Horace Murphy, general manager and proprietor of the company, and members of the cast were given applause which really amounted to an ovation upon his appearance on the stage.

"The Whole Town's Talking," one of the latest comedy-drama successes from New York City, is the opening play and will continue throughout the week, including Saturday.

'ANNABELLE' GETS HEARTY WELCOME

Dobinson Players Seen In Glendale Premiere Of Kummer Comedy

Mrs. Florence Dobinson, Fred J. Butler, director, and the Dobinson Players made another effort to fire the zeal and appreciation of Glendalians for high-class drama in their presentation of Clare Kummer's comedy, "Good Gracious Annabelle," which had its premiere last night at the Club Playhouse, North Central avenue and West Lexington drive.

Tears that were shed over "Manna," the successful play just closed at the playhouse, were turned to smiles last night, as regular first-nighters greeted their favorite players in what may be called an entertaining comedy. Even Fred Butler roared with laughter as he sat in the audience, and laughter is not always the way a director takes of expressing his feeling on a first night.

Doris Lloyd, the delightfully charming English actress, whom Mrs. Dobinson has secured to head the Players, is the lovely Annabelle Leigh. In "Manna" dramatic honors were distributed equally among the large cast of players, but things are reversed this week, and Miss Lloyd has the lead, just as she did in "The Ruined Lady." She is a versatile young woman and while her London successes lay largely in the field of more serious drama, Glendale theatre-goers have discovered in her all the attributes of a comedienne.

Hotel Setting

A New York hotel at the lunch hour furnishes the first act of "Good Gracious Annabelle." The fun begins, when a group of young people, well-bred, companionable, hungry, and low in funds, entrap each other into an invitation for luncheon, only to discover that each is penniless. There is great rejoicing when Annabelle appears on the scene. But Annabelle is in the same fix. Then the wealthy man, upon whom final hope is hung, arrives only to reveal that his wife is suing for divorce and has attached his bank account.

But lawyers, hotel detectives, butlers and rich mine owners are as naught to Annabelle, whose cleverness results in payment of the luncheon bill and the securing of servants' positions for her and her friends at the country place of a wealthy man.

There are three acts, each replete with mirthful repartee. Annabelle finds her husband, who has been "somewhere," and all ends happily.

Joseph McManus plays opposite Miss Lloyd, and while his part does not afford opportunity for much interesting work, he gives splendid character study of the person of John Rawson, a Western mine owner.

Supporting Members

King James as George Wimbledon, who owns an estate on Long Island, and is most pre-Volsteadian in his tastes, does some of the finest work yet seen in a Dobinson production. Then there are Ann Lockhart as Lottie, the under-cook, who has similar propensities to her master, and is a favorite with the audience; William H. Stephens as Harry Murchison, whose chills were almost contagious as well as hilarious; William Chapman as the stern William Gosling, lawyer; Mary Isabelle Alpaugh, as a poor girl at the mercy of her rich parents; Margery Meadows, an artist in distress; Richard Ehlers, an indigent English poet; Joe M. Cox, the subtle house detective; James Worsley as Alfred Weatherby, whose father can't pay his bills; Ethan Allen, George Wimbledon's man; Charles O'Malley, a page boy.

Stage Settings

Exceptionally fine stage settings are the work of Joe Cox, stage manager and technical director; C. L. Wallace, scenic artist; W. H. Mentzer, electrician; A. Weatherbee, master mechanic; and L. Ruggles, master of properties. Most enjoyable was the music by the Glendale trio, Gladys H. Lott, director, piano; Hedwig F. Sharkey, violin; Antoinette Frederickson, cello.

Those attending the premiere accorded the various players flattering receptions and called them back many times after each act. Demands for tickets for "Good Gracious Annabelle" are reported coming in rapidly from over the southland.

Petite Model

MARY PHILBIN, in "Fifth Avenue Models," now showing at the Glendale theatre, quiet, but also excels in the art of fisticuffs.

Mary Philbin is one motion picture star who does not fear, nor does she suffer by comparison with the members of a cast selected for their high talent as actors and actresses. Hence it is that the pictures in which she has been starred by Universal are remarkable not only by reason of talent of the star, but of the supporting cast as well.

This is evidenced to an unusual degree in "Fifth Avenue Models," in which Miss Philbin is starred, at the Glendale theatre, where the picture will be given its last screening tonight. The result is that, in addition to the fine acting of Miss Philbin, the spectators see a story told in an excellent way by all those concerned in the plot.

Men of the screen, famed by reason of their ability to fight, need look to their laurels, for this little woman is the aggressor in a fight in "Fifth Avenue Models" that is as realistic as any ever seen on the screen, albeit it is waged in a woman's way, and not at all as a man would do it.

Excellent Program

Norman Kerry has the male role opposite Miss Philbin, taking the part of a young man of wealth, social position and artistic tendencies.

On the stage Allen White's Collegiates continue to win the approval of their audiences. Marvelous orchestras and dance organizations have been no novelty to vaudeville of late, because of the great number of bands so engaged. But Allen White's Collegiates is a different aggregation. These boys, six in number, play, dance and sing. They give thirty minutes of entertainment of the highest quality.

'NARROW STREET' GATEWAY'S NEXT

'Rough Neck' Showing Last Times Today; Vaudeville On Wednesday

The Gateway theatre is showing for the last times today, "Rough Neck," starring George O'Brien. The story was written by Robert W. Service, author of "The Spell of the Yukon."

The Wednesday bill for the Gateway includes the usual vaudeville program and "The Narrow Street" as the screen feature.

The screen version of the novel by Edwin Bateman Morris, "The Narrow Street," presents a story as interesting and surprising as those crooked little alleys that twist and turn their way across crowded cities.

To outward appearances, Simon Haldane, played by Matt Moore, is as unobtrusive and retiring as the narrow street he lives on, until one stormy night he finds his bachelor quarters invaded by a nameless girl, who asks for refuge from the inclement weather and the police.

Dorothy Devore

Dorothy Devore, vivacious comedy star, characterizes the intruding Doris with all the charm of a beautiful and cultured girl in straitened circumstances, with the result that Simon Haldane, in his desire to protect her from those she fears, announces to the world that she is his wife.

William Beaudine is responsible for the direction of "The Narrow Street," which was adapted for the screen by Julien Josephson. A strong cast supports Dorothy Devore and Matt Moore, and includes players of such merit as David Butler, Gertrude Short, Tempe Pigott, Kate Toncray and Madame Sultewan.

Glendale Represented In Sorority Dramatics

Genevieve Mulligan and William Hansen of Glendale, juniors at the University of Southern California, will be in the cast of "On the Shelf," a one-act play which Zeta Phi Eta, national dramatic sorority, will present in the Touchstone theatre, April 29.

The sorority is presenting a benefit program, the proceeds of which will defray expenses of the national convention, which will be held on the Southern California campus in June. Both Miss Mulligan and Hansen are well-known in campus dramatics, having taken leads in the Junior play.

Actress Reports Gems Left In Taxi Missing

NEW YORK, April 21.—A fortune of $75,000 in jewels which Clara Kimball Young, actress, reported to police she had lost following a taxicab ride, was being sought by taxicab officials and the authorities. Miss Young told the police she had taken a taxicab from a hotel to the home of a friend and had left the jewels in the cab. No trace has been found of the taxicab.

LIQUOR CACHE

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., April 21—Ninety-three two-gallon kegs of moonshine whiskey were found in the desert sand some two hundred yards from the site of the Buckthorn club, on the Taft-Bakersfield highway by members of the district attorney's dry squad. Kern county authorities attach no blame to the owner of the club, and no arrests have been made in connection with the liquor cache.

Planning Body Denies New Commercial Zone

The Glendale Planning commission yesterday refused to recommend a district at South Verdugo road and Verd Oaks drive be placed in the commercial zone to permit the erection of business houses in that section. A petition filed with the commission by a large number of property owners, headed by Marie O. Harman, was denied.

A request to close Grand View avenue, a short stretch of road that runs through the Glendale airport, from the Southern Pacific tracks to Flower street, will be recommended favorably to the council, to be effective when the rest of Grand View avenue has been dedicated and Flower street extended to meet it. The airport roadway is unnecessary to general travel, the planning commission holds.

Petition to change the name of Watson court to Rangeview drive was recommended by the commission, which also will ask the council to change the name of Watson drive to Allen place and Watson place to Alameda court. At the present time Watson drive is a short street off Allen avenue, and Watson place is a blind street off Alameda avenue.

The building will occupy a prominent spot in Adams Square, it is said, and will be two stories high, with stores flanking the theatre entrance, and offices above the stores. Construction of the building will be modern in every respect, it is said, and fireproof throughout.

"Carfare" to Los Angeles —$51, or $9 Monthly?

There is an average saving of about $42 per month in cash to the man who doesn't drive himself to town, if he lives 13 miles from Los Angeles. Figure your saving proportionately according to your mileage. Another saving is that of "nerve strain" caused by traffic-driving. Another is in the time that you can spend in profitable reading when you go to town in this comfortable, carefree way.

CAN you really afford to drive your car to town every day when the actual costs figure about as follows, based on a distance of only 13 miles:?

Cost of gasoline, oil and ordinary depreciation at 7c per mile—26 miles daily for 26 working days . .	$47.32
Parking space at 15c per day	3.90
Total monthly cost of commuting by automobile .	$51.22
Average cost of Pacific Electric commutation tickets for the same mileage monthly	$ 9.00
Cash saving per month to commuter	$42.22

Isn't it better to save this amount, or spend it in more profitable ways?

Isn't it more comfortable to ride to town in a big Red Car, and read your morning paper on the way?

Don't you arrive less tired than when you drive yourself through traffic jams?

Isn't it more healthful to walk a few blocks to and from The Red Car, morning and evening, than to go days without exercise?

Don't you find traffic congestion more and more annoying, parking space more costly and more difficult to find?

Try The Red Cars for ten days. See how much you like them. Figure what you save in cash. Then decide if you want to go back to the old way of getting into town.

THE "Pacific Electric" is a hundred-million-dollar transportation system which is being constantly extended and improved. It takes a hundred thousand people daily to and from Los Angeles. It serves a hundred million passengers a year—transports millions of tons of freight, express and U. S. Government Mails.
Let it serve you too.

NEW THEATRE TO OPEN TOMORROW

Cosmo, On Brand Boulevard, Books 'Born Rich' As Premier Showing

Doris Kenyon, who, with Bert Lytell, Claire Windsor, Cullen Landis and J. Barney Sherry, compose the all-star cast of "Born Rich," will be seen as part of the opening program at the Cosmo theatre, South Brand boulevard and Windsor road, tomorrow night.

Glendale's newest theatre has a seating capacity of 700 and is modern throughout. Harry Gerson, who has gained experience in theatre work over a period of twelve years in every phase of the business, is manager of the house. He announced today that he has obtained for the theatre the entire output of First National, and also will show Pathe, Paramount and United Artists pictures.

A beautifully toned Wicks pipe organ has been installed at a cost of $15,000. Helene Kelly, an accomplished musician, who played for a time at a prominent theatre in New York, has been engaged as organist. Popular music will be featured.

Children's Benefit

A free kiddies' show has been arranged for Saturday, Gerson announced today. Douglas McLean will be seen in "Never Say Die." An Our Gang comedy, Aesop's Fables and the first episode of "Galloping Hoofs" will also be shown. Other features that have been scheduled include Norma Talmadge in "Secrets"; Richard Barthelmess in "Classmates"; Colleen Moore in "Sally"; Douglas McLean in "Introduce Me"; D. W. Griffith's "Isn't Life Wonderful?" and others.

"Born Rich," the First National picture that will be shown tomorrow and Thursday, is a film quite out of the ordinary and is regarded as one if the finest of this season's cinematic offerings. It is a vigorously presented story, told smoothly and eloquently and swiftly.

On Friday and Saturday Gerson has booked Douglas McLean in "Never Say Die," the screen version of Willie Collier's greatest comedy success. Evening performances will begin at 6:30 o'clock and 9 o'clock. Matinees will be held on Saturday and Sunday.

EMPLOYS EXPERTS IN DEPARTMENTS

The oldest cleaning and dyeing establishment in Glendale is the Glendale Dye Works, located at 1015 South Brand boulevard. The present owner, Louis Delonco, purchased the business of H. M. Merrill in 1915. Mr. Merrill started at the present address in 1905.

"Every year has seen the addition of new equipment, and the inauguration of new scientific methods to better facilitate the turning out of high-grade work," said Mr. Delonco. "We now believe our cleaning plant ranks among the best."

Experts are employed in all departments, and all work on delicate or fancy fabrics is done by Mr. Delonco, personally. This concern does no wholesale business, but caters to high-grade retail trade. A year ago a branch was opened in Burbank.

SPECIAL PROGRAM FREE TO KIDDIES

Manager Gerson To Be Host To Children Saturday Morning At Show

Motion pictures without kiddies would be as attractive as Brand boulevard without business blocks and brilliant lights, in the opinion of Harry Gerson, manager of Glendale's newest theatre, the Cosmo, Brand boulevard and Windsor road, which will be formally opened tomorrow night. Manager Gerson will be host to the kiddies of Glendale on Saturday morning, when the youngsters will be admitted free.

The special program Manager Gerson has arranged for the kiddies on Saturday morning will include such films as "Never Say Die," featuring Douglas McLean; an "Our Gang" comedy, always a favorite with children; Aesop's Fables and the first episode of a thrilling serial, "Galloping Hoofs."

OFFERS BARGAINS IN BEAUTY WORK

Three Days Set Aside By Miss Irene Marten On Special Prices

That many women are creatures of impulse and that the things they do depend largely upon the particular mood in which they happen to be, is the opinion voiced today by Irene Marten, beauty specialist at 715½ South Brand boulevard. This is true, says Miss Marten, because of habit, certain days of the week are devoted to shopping, others to social duties and so on throughout the week.

For this reason Miss Marten has set aside three days a week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, as a sort of special bargain day in her shop. On these days unusually low prices will prevail for her various services. She is convinced, she says, that the early days of the week are much more convenient for the average woman to devote to beauty treatments. Miss Martens is a graduate from the Burnham Beauty Culture school of Chicago, and has had 11 years' experience, she said.

HEAD OF THEATRE BUYS HOME HERE

Announcement was made today of the sale of a new home on east Maple street to Harry Gerson, manager of the new Cosmo theatre, Brand boulevard at Windsor road, by Ralph R. Race, realtor, with offices at 220 South Brand boulevard. Mr. Race states that in locating Mr. Gerson in Glendale, a real service has been rendered the theatre-going public, for the fact that Mr. Gerson's theatrical connections assure nothing but the highest class programs for the Cosmo.

Numbered among other firms recently located here by Mr. Race, are the Maroney Clothing Co., 233½ South Brand boulevard, and the Hupmobile agency at 230 South Brand boulevard. Other interests which are represented by Mr. Race includes the Verdugo Knolls property for which he is exclusive Glendale agent. He reports that business during the past 90 days is far in excess of the same period last year.

MANAGER GERSON EXPERIENCED MAN

Has Seen Industry Grow In Past Twelve Years To Present Status

Harry Gerson, manager of Glendale's newest theatre, the Cosmo, at Brand boulevard and Windsor road, is a theatrical man of wide experience. For the past twelve years Mr. Gerson has been engaged in the theatrical business and has seen the motion picture industry grow from the days of black tents, with rough planks for seats, to the present day picture house, where the seating arrangements are determined for the comfort and convenience offered patrons.

Programs at the Cosmo theatre will be void of frills, Manager Gerson announces, and the policy announced for the opening show tomorrow night—"just a reel good show"—will be followed throughout the entire season. Manager Gerson has obtained rights to the entire output of the First National producing company, and will also show Pathe, Paramount and United Artists' pictures.

English Women Taking Jobs In All Business

LONDON, April 21.—The per-250,000 over the census of 1911. hitherto regarded solely vocations of the male has increased so much lately in England that there is now not one single vocation of man that has not a woman in it.

Statistics issued here show that women are employed as sewer operatives, bargees, smiths, steel workers and furnace blowers.

Of a total of 17,800,000 people employed in industry in England, nearly 6,000,000 are women or an increase of practically 250,000 over the census of 1911.

SCHULTZ STUDIO PLANS NEW HOME

Informal Opening Will Be Held So Public May Inspect Work

The new home of the Schultz Studios will be completed in the near future, according to J. S. Schultz, proprietor. At that time an informal opening is planned when the general public will be invited to inspect the new quarters and work of the firm.

Architectural interiors, draperies, upholstery and creative decorating are the departments of service upon which the studio specializes. Original designs for the interior finish and decoration of dwellings which include the specifications for hangings and furniture in order that the final result will be harmonious, are also a part of the firm's service.

Prominent among Glendale buildings, upon which this firm has planned and executed the interiors and decorations, is the Rossmoyne Egyptian Temple. Mr. Schultz is promising his friends and patrons a great surprise at the formal opening of a new residence, the interior of which is being done by his firm. He states that a very beautiful design is being executed and that it will be unsurpassed anywhere in Southern California.

EXPENSIVE PIPE ORGAN INSTALLED

Helene Kelly To Be Organist At Cosmo Theatre; Plan Special Numbers

Realizing the importance of good music in connection with a motion picture program, Harry Gerson, manager of Glendale's newest theatre, the Cosmo, at Brand boulevard and Windsor road, which opens tomorrow night, has spared no expense in providing the best for his patrons in the musical line. A beautifully toned Wicks pipe organ, costing $15,000, has been installed in the new theatre.

Helene Kelly, well known in the musical world, will be the organist at the new theatre. Miss Kelly has played in a number of leading theatres in the east and on the Pacific coast. Before coming west, she was featured as organist in a prominent New York theatre. In addition to rendering music that "fits" the pictures as they are flashed upon the screen, Miss Kelly will feature popular music in the overtures and incidentals.

SETS STANDARDS IN SHEET METAL

Company Organized In 1924 By John Watson, Hires Only Glendale Men

On January 1, 1924, John L. Watson formed a company, under the firm name of the Co-operative Sheet Metal Works, taking in as partners, W. J. Berg, Val W. Krenzer, Harry T. Reid and A. J. Boeckman. The concern was located at Glendale avenue and Elk street. Mr. Watson, familiarly known as "Jack" is general manager, Mr. Krenzer is salesman and expert heating engineer; Mr. Berg is superintendent of heating installation; Mr. Reid is known to all Glendale contractors as an expert on skylight cornice and fancy coping; and Mr. Boeckman, expert, mechanic, makes many unusual and intricate pieces in sheet metal.

"The business has grown steadily since its inception," says Mr. Watson. "We have been obliged to more than double our floor space, recently taking over the entire ground floor of the building at 111, rear South Orange street. We do not have any boys working for us. They are all mechanics, that is the reason we satisfy discriminating builders. We boast that we have never lost a customer because of poor work or faulty service.

"The firm is now employing twice the number of men that it had originally. All members of the firm own their homes in Glendale. We will not keep a man in our employ who does not live in Glendale. The management boasts that from the start all bills have been discounted which has given the firm a very good credit standing."

DARKENED WINDOWS

By CORNELIA KANE RATHBONE

Copyright, D. Appleton & Co. Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

"In my second childhood, you see, and gone back to playing with toys," was his welcome to Graham. "I'm staging the Tragedy of the Darkened House. These are the personages who have speaking parts, as it were. They have been acting the play through for me. It helps me to clear my mind. Come on into the game, Mr. Graham, and I'll introduce my actors to you in the order of their entrance on the scene. Here, for instance, is Sergeant Basset, who discovered the open door and the body of Mr. Hurst. Police uniform, you notice. This young gentleman standing by himself off to one side, I call the Onlooker. His other name is John Graham. If he were a little handsomer, and his clothes weren't ten years behind the fashion, he would take the part better. He's my best-looking male doll, and he always takes the lover's part."

Graham caught a twinkle in the detective's eye.

"Next comes Mrs. Hurst, my most beautiful doll. Dark, you see. I have a dark beauty and a blonde in my stock company. Then here is Denis—old family servant get-up. After him the kitchen-maid—calico and apron. Then comes the thug who tried to put an end to me. His can't properly be called a speaking part, I suppose, except in so far as actions speak louder than words. Mr. Brown—here he is, doesn't speak much either till the last act—your act. He has turned-up moustache, you see; that stands for German. My Frenchman has a goatee."

"You have forgotten Miss Gwendolyn Smith. She came in before Brown," Graham reminded him.

"No. Brown's voice in the library came first. I hadn't forgotten the cat—here she is, yellow hair, made-up eyes, rouge and all. Isn't she a lovely contrast to Miss Meechem here—1870 spinster. To think that Miss Meechem brought up Miss Estelle Hurst! My! My!"

Flint picked up one of the dolls and surveyed it thoughtfully for a moment before he set it down at the end of the line. I used my blonde beauty for Miss Estelle," was all he said. "Last comes Mr. Arthur Fitzpatrick," he went on. "I don't suppose in real life he was much in the habit of carrying a shillalah, but that's the only mark I have for an Irishman. All I know of him is that he is in with that gang of anarchists, and that Mrs. Hurst writes to him. He hasn't had much to say yet, but he certainly is in the cast. Well—there they all are, Mr. Graham, all the speaking parts."

"There is still a shabby fellow lurking in the background. Who is he?"

"Oh, I forget him. He is your imaginary burglar—a mute so far."

"Waiting in the wings for his cue, of course," jested Graham.

Flint laughed. "You still cling to him, don't you?"

"As he is my own creation, I'm rather attached to him," Graham confessed.

Flint began to move the dolls about in an absent-minded way. After a moment he spoke again. "There are just three of them, in my opinion, who could have done it," he said slowly. "Which do you think they are, Mr. Graham? Bring them out and stand them up before the judge."

Graham, complying, picked up the manikin representing Mr. Brown, and placed it in front of the line; stretched out his hand again, hesitated, then drew it back, shaking his head.

Flint looked at him curiously. "Don't want to go on? Well, I don't blame you. A man hates to suspect people, sometimes."

"You speak of three possibly guilty ones, so I judge you haven't any positive proof as yet," Graham was wondering whether Evadne was one of Flint's three.

"No, I haven't, but I've got some positive theories. My dolls and I have been working them out together. Motive—motive, Mr. Graham, that's what I have been looking for—motive plus mental and moral make-up, character, that is." His tone became suddenly grave. "I think I've found it; I'll know, anyway, by tonight. If you will come to Mr. Hurst's house this afternoon, at 5 o'clock, perhaps you will know, too. I was on the point of telephoning you to ask you to be present when you came in. I'll have a couple of surprises for you, I guess, Mr. Graham."

"You may put it out of your mind once and for all, Flint, that Mrs. Hurst is any way implicated," burst out Graham. "I've got a couple of surprises to spring as well as you. I'm going to tell you something; I'm going to make a clean breast of it, and then if you want to arrest me for Hannibal Hurst's murder, you may. I grant you that things can be made to look pretty black for me. Sergeant Bassett wasn't the first on the scene that night. I was the first. I was the first to find the dead man. I was alone in the dark long enough to have committed the crime. I was there, hiding behind the curtains, when Bassett came in. I heard him telephoning to headquarters. Through a foolish fear of being implicated, of having the name of the firm dragged in, even for a moment, I kept silence."

"This is interesting, very," remarked Flint, but without the astonishment which Graham had expected him to display. Having brought himself to the point of confession, he was just a little chagrined to have produced so seemingly slight an effect.

"To tell you the truth," said Flint, as if reading his thought, "I had a hunch, just in the beginning, that you knew more about the affair than you wanted to tell. You had me guessing. The way I read it was that you thought Mrs. Hurst had had a hand in the murder and that you were trying to shield her."

"You were right. I did think so. If it hadn't been for that I would have owned to being in the house long ago. I've been in hell, Flint, knowing that she couldn't have done it, and yet dreading that she had. I knew a lot, or thought I did, that you didn't know, and if Breitman had got an inkling of it he'd have had her arrested without question. Now I know the whole story, and I'm going to prove to you that she had nothing in the world to do with it."

He lifted the figure with the shillalah, which represented Fitzpatrick, from its place at the end of the row of manikins, and set it down at the top.

"You made a mistake here, Flint," he said. As far as I am concerned, at least, the man with the limp, as I called him, was first on the stage. If it hadn't been for him you would have had to cut the Onlooker out of the piece, and then what would have happened? Why, you would never have known of the green spangle on Brown's coat sleeve; Evadne Hurst might have been accused of her husband's murder; and, instead of walking off under your nose in my ulster, her brother, poor devil, would probably have been arrested for complicity in some one of Brown's—otherwise Von Eulen's—plots."

"Her brother!" exclaimed Flint.

"Yes, her brother!" Graham was triumphant. "You haven't known everything, you see, old man! I rather think I can go you one better when it comes to surprises!"

"The Onlooker seems to have been more important than I supposed," said Flint dryly. "Let's hear all about it, Mr. Graham."

"Well, on the night of Hannibal Hurst's murder, I found myself with one dollar and twenty-five cents in my pocket, and hungry as a wolf—" began Graham.

Flint made no comment as the tale went on to the end, but, whistling softly, from time to time, grouped and regrouped his dolls.

Just as Graham had finished his story the door opened and Inspector Breitman came in, checking whatever comment Flint might have made.

"Isn't he the queer dick, playing with dolls like a baby-girl?" growled Breitman, laying an affectionate hand the while on Flint's shoulder. "But do you know, Mr. Graham, I actually believe the little devils talk to him, give him points?"

"Of course, they do," smiled Flint. "They are telling me now to ask Inspector Breitman to hold his hand just a little longer, a very little longer—till tomorrow, say."

"Now look here, Flint," expostulated Breitman, "what do you keep putting me off and putting off for? Haven't we evidence enough to make a dozen arrests now?"

"But, you see, we don't want a dozen; we want one," argued Flint. "Come, now, inspector; give me my own way till tomorrow."

"All right; I give in again," conceded Breitman. If there was a soft spot anywhere in his heart, it was for Flint. "But here's I don't know how many weeks since Hannibal Hurst was murdered, and nothing done. It reflects on me; it reflects on the entire force."

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

WARN MOTORISTS IN ATWATER DISTRICT

Persons Parking Cars Along Right of Way of Pacific Electric to Be Prosecuted, Official Says

A second warning to motorists not to park their automobiles on the property of the Pacific Electric railway along the street car tracks on Glendale boulevard has been issued by J. R. Hamilton, inspector for the car company. Automobile owners who persist in using the carline right-of-way for a parking space will be prosecuted, Inspector Hamilton declared.

A first warning was posted long the right-of-way a month ago and since that time employes of the Pacific Electric have endeavored to enforce the "no parking" ruling, but without appreciable results.

"The continued parking of automobiles along our right-of-way is illegal and has become a menace to safety along Glendale boulevard. The order we have given to the public to discontinue the practice is not our desire alone but the ruling of the Los Angeles police department. We have been notified by the police authorities to keep the right-of-way clear as a safety measure," Inspector Hamilton said.

Individual warnings were fastened to steering wheels of a number of autos parked on the forbidden ground yesterday. They bore the warning, "I am instructed to prosecute you if your car is found parked on the right-of-way again," and were signed by Inspector Hamilton.

Running Across

Word 1. A poetical word for flag. In olden times a piece of cloth attached to a staff and used by a king or knight as the rallying point for his men in battle.

Word 4. Capital of Massachusetts.

Word 6. The property a person leaves at his death to be divided.

Running Down

Word 1. The holiest book.
Word 2. Negative.
Word 3. Rove, roam, wander, stroll.
Word 5. Past tense of sit.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWERED

Receive Reply To Request

A reply to the recent communication of the Atwater Improvement association, containing a copy of the resolution favoring the establishment of a new grammar school between Los Feliz and Glendale boulevards, was received yesterday afternoon from the Los Angeles board of education. The reply, signed by H. E. Griffin, assistant secretary of the board, states that the resolution of the improvement body has been passed on to the building committee of the board and the superintendent of schools, and is as follows:

"This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of April 13, addressed to the president of the board of education, requesting that a site be purchased and a school erected to take care of the small children living in the territory west of Glendale boulevard and extending beyond Los Feliz boulevard into what is known as Walnut Grove tract.

"Your communication has been presented to the board of education and has been referred to the building committee and to the superintendent."

C. T. Wardlaw To Speak

Charles T. Wardlaw, candidate for the City Council in the first ward, of which Atwater district is a part, will be the principal speaker at a mass meeting of voters at the Shurgat building, 3202 Glendale boulevard, Friday night. This meeting for Mr. Wardlaw will follow closely on the heels of the Atwater—Bledsoe meeting at the Atwater grammar school on Thursday night.

The plan of Mr. Wardlaw to have the Pacific Electric tracks elevated through the Atwater district will be taken up by the council candidate in his address.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

CERTAINLY! YOU CAN GAIN, TOO.

Those who state that thin persons should not eat more to gain —please take notice of the following letter:

"Dear Doctor: I am writing to thank you for your advice to the T. T. T.'s. I have been one all my life and was never able 'by hook or crook' to take on an ounce until I began following your advice. I have gained a good deal and my friends and family think it is wonderful. I pass the word along at every opportunity."—Miss R."

Thank you for letting us know of your good results, Miss R., and also thank you for passing along the health advice to your friends.

GRANULAR EYELIDS

Mrs. H.—If your boy has true granular eyelids, he has a very serious disease known as trichoma. You must take him to an oculist immediately.

Trichoma, a very contagious disease, is very common in Russia, Poland, Hungary, Italy and the Orient. It is often called the Egyptian Ophthalmia because the majority of the Egyptians are thus afflicted. In America it is common among the foreign population, and especially so among the immigrants. It is not uncommon among the native Americans, especially in some parts of the middle west.

Trichoma is passed on from one to another by the secretion which comes from the inflammation. Towels, handkerchiefs, fingers, etc., all act as transfer agents. The more profuse the discharge, the greater is the danger of infection.

According to May's latest edition on Diseases of the Eye, cause of Trichoma has not been isolated. It is uncertain whether it is caused by bacteria (microscopic plant life) or protozoa (microscopic animal life).

There is much that can be done for the disease if it is treated early by an eye specialist. Don't try to treat this yourself, Mrs. H.

THE WORK GOES ON

"Dear Doctor: I have put off writing long enough. Since I started dieting according to your instructions, I have lost 33 pounds and that makes me just the correct weight for my height. This was done in about six months' time, the first two being the 'banner months,' losing about 20 pounds in that time. The joy of it all is the fact that I can now lose and gain as I want to. I ate an extra amount while on my vacation this summer, and gained four pounds, but it took just two days of liquid diet to get that off, and since then I have not gained a pound. Kind of good to know that I don't ever need to be fat again!

"I also want to tell you that I have given this same diet to three friends and they have all reduced. One girl weighed 232 when she started and now weighs 166 and looks wonderful. Another lost from 156 to 130 and is now her correct weight. It has proved a regular Godsend.—Miss J."

One always loses more at the beginning of the reduction because the fat that is last put on is probably not so well organized. Also the heavier one is, the faster one loses in the beginning.

I am glad you are spreading the gospel, Miss J. We must always keep in mind that our work is not solely a beautifying work. It is a health work. You have probably saved your friends a lot of physical disorders. For instance, you may have saved them from diabetes (75 per cent of the diabetics are overweight before that disease develops) intestinal disorders, heart and kidney disease and a host of other troubles. I dub you with the Order of Public Health Educator.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e., if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Reader Friend: "What is the 'choke' in an artichoke? I have asked many old housekeepers, but not one of them could tell me. All of the cookbooks I have, except one, ignore this part of the vegetable."

Answer: The choke of an artichoke is a thistlelike heart which should be removed either before or after cooking (it is easier to remove after cooking). Take it out from the top.

C. T.: "I have spilled oil furniture polish on my oatmeal wallpaper. What will take it off?"

Answer: Gasoline should remove it, or benzine, chloroform or ether. Don't use near heat or flame.

Regular Reader: "How is willow furniture cleaned? My chair has become soiled from general use."

Answer: Natural finish willow, reed or rattan furniture is all cleaned alike, as follows: Remove dust by blowing with a bellows, bicycle pump, or vacuum cleaner blower-attachment. Then wash with warm soapsuds containing one teaspoon of borax to the quart, using a scrubbing brush. Wipe with a clean cloth and set in the sun to finish drying. If, however, the piece is badly yellowed or darkened, it may be bleached as follows: Make a good strong suds of warm water and white soap, and to one gallon of it add one-half cup of table salt and two ounces of bleaching powder (chloride of lime). Scrub the willow pieces with this, using a stiff brush, and taking care not to wet hands or clothing, then place in the open air to dry.

M. M.: "Could I dye my heavy white wool sweater a dark blue successfully at home? I should want it to dry without stretching."

Answer: If you wish to experiment, knit a small sample of white wool, buy a wool dye of the desired color and shade, and see what you can do with the sample before going ahead on the sweater. I am afraid you will not have much success. Wool garments often shrink when being dyed. It is also hard to dry a sweater without stretching it. Perhaps your best course would be to let a professional cleansing establishment do the work for you.

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—Claiming that he only stole because his family was starving, Daniel Crone, 27, proved his point by showing that he passed up a full cash register in the Burbank grocery store he robbed and only took some vegetables. Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

ANSWERED LETTERS

Telo—The white specks that come on the upper part of your cheeks are the result of clogged pores, and their occasional disappearance shows that the skin has expelled the impacts. These specks are called "whiteheads" and come from the same cause as blackheads, the only difference being that one does not collect soil while the other does.

I think if you will stimulate your skin to act more freely you will overcome the trouble. Try any form of exercise that will improve your circulation and add to this local stimulation a massage and a cold spray over the skin after bathing, followed by friction from a coarse towel or bathbrush.

Blonde—Unless a mole on the face is so conspicuous that it detracts from your appearance, it is best to let it alone unless you can have professional advice about it. Never tamper with moles yourself.

Most small moles are not noticeable and sometimes give a contrast with the skin that makes it look better for it. There is also the possibility that such moles will disappear through the natural processes of absorption and elimination.

F. W.—You can purchase the best grade of castile soap at most drug shores or at the toilet counters of the department stores. It is not necessary that the soap should be green to be of the best quality, as an olive oil soap may be any shade from the creamy oily tint to green, and it is olive oil in the castile that makes it desirable.

A Steady Reader—It is evident that it will take more than a month for you to massage with the cocoa butter before it shows any results. While the cocoa butter is nourishing, much of benefit is attained through the massage by increasing the circulation in the muscles, so be sure to massage deeply so that the calves of the legs will derive the benefit of the exercising, which is, after all, just what massage amounts to.

E. S. R.—The marks on your skin left from pimples will leave after a time, especially if you establish a healthy condition in your system. As most bleaches are irritating, it is not advisable to use them for this purpose, since the marks are really due to irritation from the eruptions. Bathe all over every day and give the complexion special care to keep the pores free from soil and add to this a cream and a massage when the skin is dry or in need of stimulation.

M.—As you are about fifteen pounds overweight, I am suggesting to you to diet so that you will be normal, and then your limbs and ankles will not be stout. A girl of 18 with a heighth of five feet, three inches, should weigh about 110 to 115 pounds.

Tomorrow—Pretty Noses

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

In the box was a set of eight salad forks, a gift from the members of the society. Refreshments were served by several members. The cake contained a thimble, ring and dime. Miss Crampton cut the cake. Miss Thelma Johnston got the ring and Miss Audrey Manifold the dime, and the girls refused to look for the thimble. GIANT PITCHING STAFF HOLDS UP

Confine Braves And Dodgers To Five Runs In Four Games At Outset

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Hailing with typographical glee the fact that Giant pitchers have confined the Braves and Dodgers to five runs in their last four games, local prophets today were pleased to see the pennant flying over the Polo grounds for the fifth straight year. They based their reasoning upon the current opinion that bad pitching only can keep the Giants out of the pennant and that Giant pitching to date has been about as poor as Rockefeller's nephew.

But they overlook one factor, viz: No one can get a true line on the Giants' pitching until the club fares forth into the west where the spaces are wide open and men are hitters. The east, with few exceptions, is punchless.

There is, for example, hardly a real hitter in the whole Boston outfit. The Phillies can hit, but their defense is full of manholes. The Dodgers, who faced the Giants without Fournier, were like a haircut without a shave. They could not hit any better than a man with an empty sleeve.

West Next June

The Giants will not go west until the first week in June; therefore the west, being just as accommodating as Mohammed, will come to the Giants. The first inter-sectional game at the Polo grounds will bring the Giants and Cardinals together on May 8 and from that time on friendship will cease. If the Giant pitchers have anything beyond the right idea they will have to show it then or forever hold their peace. No one ever denied that the Cards can hit.

The Reds, next in line, are not a typical western club, in that they stress defense over offense. Still there is enough hitting in the Cincinnati camp to give any staff of pitchers a thorough test. The Cubs, who follow, are hitting fools in their own little park, but the foul lines of the Polo grounds are conveniently adjacent and Chicago might break out in an orgy of slugging at any time.

Then the Pirates come and the real tip-off. If Giant pitchers can stop that crew of hitters there will be nothing for it but to admit that McGraw has assembled a staff at last. But there will be no five-home-runs-in-four-games record made at any stage of the proceedings.

Illinois Tank Star Swims At Los Angeles

Johnny Weismuller, the world's fastest swimmer, is coming to Los Angeles Athletic club Tuesday night, April 28. It will be his first visit to Southern California since the beginning of his record-smashing career and phenomenal leap to international fame. He will afford swimming fans an opportunity to see how fast the humand body can be propelled through the water under its own power. The meet will be open to the public.

The noted Chicago merman will head an elaborate program of events in the Mercury plunge, which will include his teammates of the Illinois Athletic club swimming organization, Bobby Skelton, world champion breast stroke artist, and Stubby Kruger, former national and world record holder for back-stroke swimming. Weismuller and Kruger will also put on their famous comedy act in the plunge. There will be plenty of local competition, too, including Duke Kahanamoku and many others.

Assembly Club Card Postponed By Rain

Owing to inclement weather which kept the patrons away, the weekly boxing show scheduled at the Assembly Athletic club last night was postponed till next Monday night. The same card will be presented then. Baby Gans and Eddie Sylvester will meet in the ten-round main event.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Three pitchers of the Cincinnati club have done something that three pitchers had yet to do in big league baseball until this trio got busy. One after the other they set what is considered to be the hardest hitting club in their league flat on the ground with exactly six hits in each game. Incidentally they did their share to keep their Ohio delegation at the top in the race while this was going on.

The first pitcher to pare St. Louis off with six hits was Donohue, in the opening game. And then came Luque, similarly primed and similarly successful in the second and in third Rixey added to the joy of Redland by knocking the Cards over again with a six hit total.

This feat isn't winning any pennant for Cincinnati but it will have its effect upon some loose thinking critics who have not given the Cincinnati club any show in the race going on this year. It will not be news to a wise manager because it has been conceded that the Reds have a pitching staff which should do a lot of winning if handled well and if the ball isn't kicked around too much.

There is a pennant possibility in Cincinnati that has been largely overlooked because the Reds have so often promised and so seldom come through. Give that team Kelly of the Giants, as has been stated before and it would be in the thick of the National League fight until the last curfew of the season.

Another issue develops in this good work of the three Cincinnati pitchers in question. Hendricks, their manager, has been strong for keeping pitchers in the south until the last minute before a season starts and this year he had his way. In the old days when Frank Bancroft was business managing the Reds he would have had them scheduled from Dan to Beersheba, especially the latter for two weeks between Florida and home and pretty well fagged out before the race started. "Banny" was a fine scout but a man of rash judgment about arranging exhibition games.

They don't need exhibitions now. Local support is plenty and if local support will not keep a team going, scrawny exhibition games for less than $100 a throw are not going to do any good.

Hendricks had his way about the exhibition games and the Reds did not leave Orlando, Fla., until March 31, being the last homing birds to fly. He got the team into Cincinnati in better condition than it ever has been and with that team there is an idea that it can win the pennant—an idea which should be carefully nurtured.

There are five or six decidedly prominent men on the team who are sure they can take a championship into captivity this year and if they are not crossed in their purpose by too much guff they will go a long way toward getting what they are after.

The first game of a season doesn't win a pennant, nor do the first three games, but it is mighty seldom in baseball that three pitchers start as Donohue, Luque and Rixey have started.

Of the eighteen hits made by St. Louis in the first 3 games, seven were batted by Hornsby and Bottomley. Seven eighteenths is not far from half. That is another odd turn to the series. This Cincinnati bunch has a chance to be one of the one, two, three clubs if that kind of pitching will average until October.

NEW YORK, April 21—In Dempsey's success in again avoiding a fight with Harry Wills, Paddy Mullins has additional cause for sorrow.

His boy, Tommy O'Brien, put his right hand again on the fritz in the bout against Pal Moran and it is now in worse shape than when Fralick, the Maulie surgeon, recently operated on it.

There was a good shot of dough in prospect out of the project Joe Benjamin-Tommy O'Brien semi-final meeting in the lightweight tourney but here Joe gets plastered by Ace Hudkins out on the coast and O'Brien busts his hand against Pal Moran's concrete features.

Benny Leonard can tell the world just what sort of a map Moran has got for any tender fisted boxer to land upon.

Charley Harvey, a square shooter, has been sitting on the sidelines listening to all the claims of the various welterweights and now rises to speak his piece.

Charley is guiding the destinies of that transplanted Englishman Bermondsey Billy Wells. Wells traveled all over the east for two years whipping everything and everybody the promoters cared to throw at him.

Then he went to the coast and continued his good work. Billy has been forced to meet middleweights and went through them just the same as he did members of his own class. In fact his record reads a good deal like that of Mickey Walker, whom he hopes to face some day. Jousts with Frankie Schoell, Bert Colima, Jock Malone and Dave Shade abound in both men's records.

If Dave Shade really has taken on weight Wells may slip into his place as leading contender for the welter title. Harvey's idea is to have his Englishman fight his way to this position.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News.

It has come to be the custom of big league managers to so jockey their pitching staffs that they can lead their aces against the opposition in the first game of the several series played during the campaign.

Sometimes these aces are trumped but the aforesaid managers figure that a game in the hand is worth two in the bush. So they trot out their best pitcher.

More particularly is this true where the New York Yanks are the visiting opposition. The New York team has never been a popular one and because of that and the fact that they were champs for some campaigns the desire to turn them back in the first fray has been doubled.

When the winter's biggest deal in the American League was put through last winter Urban Shocker, star of the St. Louis mound staff for several seasons, traded places with Joe Bush, wizard—at times—of the Yank staff.

Everyone conceded that Shocker was the "ace" needed to help Huggins. Everyone felt that Bush would find new life with the Browns and become an "ace" with Sisler's crew.

Fans visualized immediately a nifty pitching duel between the two men as one of the first thrills of the meetings of the two teams this campaign.

But right now it's a good bet that when the Yankees blow into St. Louis for the opening series that Sisler may lead a different ace.

Sisler made no bones of the fact that Milton Gaston, young hurler, must be included in the deal to make it take. Gaston was known to be a promising hurler. There was a question, in New York, as to how nearly ready he was. Now Sisler believes he is "ripe."

And the man who has played the most important part in preparing him to take the "ace" title is none other than Bush.

Taught Gaston Delivery

Bullet Joe had taken Gaston in hand when they were Yanks. Had taught Gaston, among other things, how to throw the "fork" ball. Huggins, however, had his hands full juggling his veteran pitchers and gave Gaston little attention.

When Bush, Gaston and young Joe Giard, the fourth hurler who figured in the deal, reported for spring training Bush told Sisler he believed Gaston was ready for regular duty. Sisler made Bush a member of the coaching staff handling the boxmen and told Joe to devote all the time he needed to Gaston. Sisler himself gave Milton much help.

As a result Gaston seems ready to take his regular turn in the box—and deliver the goods.

Gaston's chief asset is speed. Perhaps that is what drew Bush, once owner of one of the fastest deliveries in baseball, to the young man. Gaston has the build which makes for speed. He stands six feet tall. He has an easy motion which suggests that he will carry that speed for some years if he doesn't strain his arm.

Is "On His Own"

Next to speed he has a pretty curve and then the fork ball. This is a wierd, Frank Merriwell shoot, that breaks differently than a curve. It gets its name from the way it is held in delivering. The ball is gripped between the first and second fingers.

And he has plenty of confidence in himself—more than he had as a Yankee. With New York he seemed lost in a maze of pitchers. With the Browns he finds himself recognized, even called by name by the older members of the team.

An interesting incident in connection with Gaston's career holds a moral for young players. Sisler's first glimpse of the hurler was obtained one day last summer when the Yanks roamed into St. Louis, fighting desperately to hold their championship.

The Browns waded into them with abandon. Seeking to stop the slaughter Huggins called on Gaston for relief duty. The Browns treated him roughly but Sisler was impressed with the youngster's courage and coolness. He remembered Gaston when first mention was made of the Yanks trying to obtain Shocker.

Now watch Mr. Gaston's smoke.

VIII—Poisonous Foods

It is well for business men and women to follow the natural food method as it means an active body at all times and a clear thinking brain. A boxer trains for the time when he must act and think quickly for a few minutes only, while the business man or woman should be able to do it any time. A quick body often means safety, and a clear brain will take care of mental emergencies. There is no tendency to worry or become depressed. People with suicide on their minds will forget all about it, and the world will become much brighter to them, and they can see a clear path ahead and many friends.

Poisonous foods can only poison the mind and body, as nearly every one knows who has seen the effects of too much alcohol. Chemists claim food in certain combinations and quantity ferments in the stomach, which means the production of alcohol for the body to assimilate, and suffer the bad effects.

It is commonly supposed that a person performing hard labor should eat more than a person following a sedentary occupation, but the fact remains that the physically inactive body will digest more food than the active body. While the active body demands more muscle building material, it requires more blood to supply the muscle building material. The act of overeating draws heavily on the blood supply to keep the stomach in action, to prevent congestion. Dividing up the blood supply will rob the muscles of their necessary supply, hence a very tired, worn-out person from overeating.

The physically inactive person does not use his muscles enough to demand much blood supply. His stomach and digestive organs can have it all to churn up the food that his teeth failed to grind up, but he will probably hold it down, while on the other hand an athlete going into action would become very sick and have to vomit. In both cases the persons would experience a drowsy, foggy brain feeling, and if the athlete does not vomit a very serious case of indigestion may result, sometimes ending in death. So the greatest safety guard is undoubtedly proper mastication, which will prevent overloading of the stomach.

Plan Swimming Meets At Venice For Summer

Plenty of swimming meets have been lined up for Venice aquatic followers for this spring and during the summer months. Swimming teams have been organized at the canal city among the employes of the Ocean View hotel and Ward McFadden's Ship cafe. The hotel swimmers are being coached by Bob Henderson, while McFadden himself is coaching the cafe men. Both places boast of several star swimmers.

City High School Ball League Opens Friday

Hollywood plays Manual Arts at the Artisans' field in the other game on the first round. The third game on the card between Lincoln and Jefferson has been postponed until later in the season.

ELONGATED GAME

Sylvester Johnson split up the middle after hypnotizing the Indians for eight innings and lost the game in the fifteenth when, after Speaker walked and J. Sewell sacrificed, he passed Stephenson intentionally and then Knode and Fewster without the slighest intention in the world. Kerr pitched sensationaly after relieving Uhle in the seventh.

The White Sox beat the Browns in a free-for-all, 11 to 10, thirty-three hits being made by both clubs.

TEXTILE TROUBLES

BOSTON, April 21.—Textile men here attribute part of the difficulty of New England woolen mills to failure to gain a friendly attitude on the part of employes, the towns in which they are located and the state legislatures. For this reason some say tailors and merchants are giving preference to foreign made goods.

CINCINNATI DROPS

Meadows sent the Redland hitters out of first place and pitched the Pirates into a 4 to 2 decision that dropped Cincinnati out of the league lead. The young man would have had a shutout but faltered in the eighth.

GLAND PATIENT IN RUNNING RACE AMAZES AUDIENCE

Breasting the tape with a final burst of almost super-human speed, with the sparkle of victory glinting in his eye, a man 73 years of age hurtled across the line a triumphant victor in a 50-yard race in the amazing time of 6 second. Onlookers were amazed to see this aged runner, who had his waning strength revived by glandular treatment, almost equal the world's running record for 50 yards. This almost unbelievable incident occurred at the annual field meet at one of California's state institutions.

It was another victory for Science, proving again that youthful vigor, stamina, ambition and power may be restored by reviving the vital glands of the body.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, which is prepared in convenient tablet form, for men and for women, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic.

FLOOR PLAN OF NO. 1. GROTH FIRE PLACE DAMPER FURNACE

After fourteen years of pioneering and hard work, Fred A. Tarr of 246 North Jackson street, one of the oldest members of the building trade, announces the completion and opening of his own building at 1210 South Brand boulevard. Coming here in 1892, he is one of the real "old-timers" and has watched the growth and development of Glendale from a village to a city.

Since 1911 he has been engaged in the same line of business and specializes in the construction and installation of tile mantels and bath rooms. In connection with his tile business he handles the Groth Fireplace Damper Furnace.

In his new show rooms a special display of these furnaces and fancy tile mantels is now being made. Several features of merit claimed for the Groth Furnace are: economical to operate, burns gas, wood or coal and prevents waste of heat units.

Mr. Tarr asserts that 75 per cent of the heat lost in the average fireplace is saved through the use of the Groth Fireplace Furnace without the loss of the open fire or other advantages.

Narcotic Bill Takes Assemblymen's Time

Johnson bill providing for the incorporation of metropolitan water districts. This act sets up the machinery for the formation of a district to take water for domestic use of several communities in Southern California cities from the Colorado river following completion of the Boulder Canyon dam.

Assemblyman Byrnes bill to create an old age pension system was passed out favorably by the Senate finance committee. This bill has already been passed in the lower house.

Reapportionment

Reapportionment measures sent to the Assembly by the Senate will be threshed out in a special session of reapportionment committee in the lower house this afternoon. Amendments tying the constitutional reapportionment, as covered in Senator Harry Chamberlin's bill, will be made to the constitutional amendment submitted by cow counties, before the two measures go hand in hand to Assembly floor for final action, probably tomorrow.

The Los Angeles delegation is confident both will get to the floor late this afternoon for the second reading and will be made a special order of business Wednesday, thus preceding the gasoline tax increase fight. Illness of Chairman Sidney Graves, Los Angeles, of the Assembly revenue and taxation committee, caused consideration of the Breed bill, adding 1 cent levy to each gallon of gasoline for highway construction, to lie dormant until today.

Southern California's metropolitan water district bill was reported out of the municipal corporations committee of Assembly today, "Do pass."

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, April 21.—Stock prices wavered for a shore period today and then resumed the downward trend. The buying power supplied by the professionals in covering up short lines has been practically exhausted, stocks were compelled either to "shift for themselves" or to withstand new assaults in the form of short-selling.

Professional selling for the decline was concentrated on a few of the high-priced industrial leaders, which gave ground easily and recovered losses of from 3 to 12 points. The bears' campaign was helped along by the advance in call money rates to 4 per cent and the apparent lack of outside interest in the market. The spectacular forward movement in the motor stocks had apparently reached its climax, leaving a few of the standard dividend-paying stocks to furnish the chief rallying ground for the bulls. In this respect the action of Studebaker was conspicuous, this stock advancing to 46 on buying.

Universal Pipe, common and preferred, and Cast Iron Pipe broke through their previous low price levels for the year, principally as the result of selling based on reports of severe competion with French manufacturers of iron pipe. Cast Iron Pipe at 134 showed an additional loss of 13 points for the day, while the Universal Pipe stock lost 3 points each. When United States Steel declined about a point, the independent steel stocks were sold in good volume. Gulf States, Republic, Crucible and Bethlehem declined a point or more.

A number of important annual stockholders' meetings were scheduled for today, including American Locomotive, United States Rubber, Timken, Wilson & Co. and Pierce-Arrow. Maxwell and Chesapeake & Ohio meetings were postponed, the latter to June 23.

American Locomotive was reported operating at 32 per cent capacity. Satisfactory earnings and encouraging outlook was reported to the stockholders of the United States Rubber Co. and the Pierce-Arrow Co.

Efforts to interest traders in the rails were unavailing. After a slight upward movement in Frisco common and Southern Railway, the rails faded out of the picture. Neither was any serious consideration given to the oil stocks, which had their most inactive day in two or three weeks. No sales were recorded up to the third hour in some of the oil stocks, which are always prominent in a forward movement in this section of the market.

Selling pressure increased in the last hour and the market was called on to absorb heavy offerings of motor stocks. Maxwell "B" lost about 7 points, at 76, thus completing a loss of 13 points from the level at which the "squeeze" of the shorts was most successful. Mack Trucks sold down to 142¾; General Motors was down 1 point and Pierce-Arrow 2 points each. Maxwell "A" stock was steady.

Selling spread to industrial leaders, steel dropping 2 points, to 114⅞; Baldwin down 3; General Electric down 2½; Air Reduction 3; New York Central and Atchison, in the railroad group, lost 2 points each. American Can, at 170, showed a loss of nearly 5 points from the high of the day. Cast Iron Pipe, at 135, was down 12, and Universal Pipe preferred, at 70, was down 4½.

The market was heavy at the close.

Sales of stock today, 1,346,900 shares; bonds, $11,965,000.

MONEY & EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, April 21.—Call money on the floor of the New York stock exchange today ruled at 3½ per cent; high, 4½ per cent; low, 3½ per cent. Time money was dull. Rates were: Sixty days, 3¾@4 per cent; ninety days, 3¾@4 per cent; four months, 3¾@4 per cent; five months, 3¾@4 per cent; six months, 3¾@4 per cent. The market for prime mercantile paper was steady. Call money in London today was 3½ per cent. Sterling exchange was firm, with busineess in bankers' bills at $4.79⅜ for demand.

N. Y. COTTON

NEW YORK, April 21.—The cotton market was irregular at the close. Final prices were from 15 to 52 points lower. Spot cotton down 20 points, middling uplands $24.75.

STUDENTS POISONED

RIVERSIDE, April 21.—Five hundred students of Sherman Institutes, an Indian school, were recovering here today from the effects of eating poisoned food Sunday.

CHICAGO STOCK

CHICAGO, April 21.—Hogs—Receipts, 21,000; market steady; bulk $12@12.40, top $12.50. Heavy weight, $12.10@12.45; medium weight, $12.15@12.50; light weight, $12.10@12.50; light lights, $11.75@12.40; heavy packing sows, smooth, $10.75@11; packing sows, rough, $10.50@10.75; pigs, $10.75@12.25.

MARKET SUMMARY

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—Conditions in the business world are described as fair by the leading mercantile agencies in reviews of trade movements. The volume of business, on the whole, is equal to that of this period last year when the downward trend had become marked as a result of political developments. The Easter retail trade was characterized as satisfactory.

E. J. Miley, drilling a test well on the Red Mountain area east of the Ventura avenue field, has made shallow discoveries that are causing a lot of excitement in Ventura county. At 340 feet the Miley well began picking up a rich sand. The sand was so rich and so shallow that it looked out of the question. Drilling was carried to 390 feet and a test will be made.

Approximately 2000 barrels was the decline of the daily average production for the Dominguez field the past week. Previous week's figures credited Dominguez with a daily average output of 48,000. The same wells produced only 46,000 barrels the past week.

Withdrawal in deposits, shown in the Bank of Italy statement for April 6, as compared with the one at the beginning of the year, is entirely explained by withdrawals of funds on deposit by the county treasurer, according to H. R. Coulter, manager of the southern headquarters of the bank. Such funds are usually replaced later in April when the tax money is collected.

Slow-Plodding Horse Gives Way To Auto

Horses have no place on modern city streets in the present age of gasoline vehicles.

An aged, slow-moving horse was crossing the Los Feliz road bridge over the Los Angeles river shortly before 11:30 o'clock last night. From the opposite direction a swiftly-moving automobile bore down on it, and, as the car swerved and brushed against it, the horse leaped the low rail onto the muddy shore below.

The horse was uninjured. Glendale police notified the Lincoln Heights station in Los Angeles to watch for the driver of the machine, believed to have been intoxicated. The driver escaped, however.

Bad Check Case Gets Further Continuance

Preliminary hearing of L. L. Walton, Long Beach youth, charged with passing fictitious checks on Glendale merchants, was continued yesterday by Police Judge F. H. Lowe to April 28 upon motion of the defense. Walton was arrested after his activities here had been checked by the Glendale Merchants' association, co-operating with the police.

SENATOR AIMS TO 'BREAK' U.S. CASE

Cross-Examination of Star Witness Versus Wheeler Brings Denials

By KENNETH CLARK

For International News Service.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 21.—Launching its fight to acquit Senator Wheeler of Montana, the defense in federal court here today attempted to smash the testimony of two of the government's star witnesses. Wheeler is being tried on charges of illegally accepting a fee from Gordon Campbell, Montana oil operator, to appear before the interior department.

As its first move the defense recalled George B. Hayes, New York attorney, the government's surprise witness, and H. C. Glosser, former secretary to Campbell, both of whom had given testimony relating to Wheeler's alleged activities for Campbell in Washington.

Hayes was interrogated particularly about his testimony before the Senate Wheeler-Brookhart committee that investigated the department of justice.

Senator Walsh, of defense counsel, pressed Hayes as to whether he had met Wheeler in the anteroom of the committee before taking the stand and Hayes answered, "No."

Denies Meeting

Hayes also denied that at his first appearance he had met or talked with Harry Stern of Buffalo, N. Y., or A. B. Melzner of Butte, Mont., both committee attaches. Hayes testified previously that Wheeler, in a New York hotel lobby offered to split fees if Hayes would represent him before the interior department in prosecuting Campbell's oil claims.

Tom Stout, ex-congressman and chairman of the state Democratic committee testified he conducted the negotiations leading to Wheeler's employment to defend a receivership suit for Campbell in Montana courts only.

"Wheeler agreed to represent Campbell at a retainer of $10,000 a year," said Stout. "Wheeler stated flatfly that it would have to be understood that his services would apply only to work in Montana courts and he would be unable to represent Campbell in any public land affairs."

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Governor Friend Richardson in a lengthy statement issued in Sacramento denied reprieve to Clarence (Tuffy) Reid, Los Angeles youth, who was convicted of murder.

Sympathy should be extended, the governor well said. But for executive clemency he declared against it on the ground that people must learn that crime does not pay.

And he made a particularly strong warning to those who use dope, for Reid was a confirmed addict as well as an habitual criminal.

The governor's position is right.

It appears, however, that Reid killed a dealer in dope, if testimony of his partner in crime is worthy of consideration. The reputed trunk merchant was a peddler of narcotics. Reid was one of the unfortunate victims of the traffic.

That is an unusual circumstance. Not only is justice served in the scheduled hanging of the victim, but his crime was a lesson to those who sell dope, people who are more or less responsible to all outward appearances.

A few more "Tuffy" Reid cases and more would be done to end the narcotic evils than all of the moral legislation written.

Even a dopey has his fears of death.

Very favorable comments are heard about Glendale wherever one travels. However, the city should be more widely advertised.

With the several new hotel and apartment buildings opened this year Glendale can well make a bid for tourist travel.

Incidentally, it is going to be greater this summer than before. And thousands of settlers are due to come to the coast during the next two years.

Glendale should get its share.

Real estate men in Glendale find a demand for reasonable priced rental properties at this time of the year. Bungalows now are preferred. Later the apartments will fill up.

A mighty good way to reach the public with what you have to offer is through the classified columns of The Glendale Evening News.

Day after day two pages or more of classified advertising appear in this paper. If people appreciated the average of good results they would fill three or four pages with the liner ads.

Also, readers of The Glendale Evening News should refer their inquiries to these columns for whatever they want. It is a great medium of exchange of information.

The three hundred and sixty-first anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare, was celebrated yesterday at the meeting of the Shakespeare department of the Tuesday Afternoon club. Mrs. H. W. Ralston and Mrs. Mazie Fullman Garrett, curator and instructor, presided. The program included songs from "Two Gentlemen of Verona" and "Love's Labor Lost," by Mrs. William Nash, Jr., accompanied by Mrs. Roberta T. Young. "The Boy Will," a play written by R. M. Rogers, past president of the American Drama league, when he was 19 years old, was read as a tribute to Shakespeare. Mrs. A. C. Rowsey read a paper on Shakespeare. Later Mrs. Garrett led in the study of "The Tempest."

Union Pacific Expert Sees Tourist Influx

An optimistic outlook for the summer and fall tourist season in California was given today by E. F. Deigert, assistant general passenger agent of the Union Pacific system, when he paid a short visit to Glendale on business. National conventions scheduled to be held in California and other western states during the summer will bring more than 50,000 persons to California this year who would not otherwise come, he said. A total of 200,000 tourists are expected to flood the Golden state from June to December.

SHIP BOARD'S ROW NEARS ARMISTICE

Split Over Sale of Boats To Dollar Line Seen Near Settlement

By FRED J. WALKER

For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The internal row which has split the United States shipping board over a ship sales policy entered the armed truce stage today as the warring factions sought to reach an amicable settlement of their differences.

With the policy of the majority in voting to sell five passenger liners to the Dollar interests vindicated by the courts who refused to grant an injunction sought by the Pacific Mail Co., the minority is understood to look upon the row now as a "closed incident."

An element of mystery was injected into the controversy when leaders of both factions flatly denied that President Coolidge had called for an official explanation of the row.

White House Denial

Both Chairman O'Connor of New York, who led in voting to accept the $5,625,000 dollar bid, and Commissioner Plummer of Maine, minority leader, announced no such communication had been received by the board. The White House refused today to confirm or deny reports that the letter had been sent.

Opinion in board circles was that Pacific Mail would halt its fight to prevent the transfer of the liners to the Dollar line and automatically retire, at least for the time being, from its San Francisco-Asiatic trade route.

Pacific Mail has until tomorrow to appeal to the district appellate court before the restraining order is automatically dismissed and the board is free to carry out the actual sale.

CIVIC SOCIETY TO URGE BOND ISSUE

Advancement Body Plans to Push Election to Aid Grammar Schools

Action toward calling a bond election for Glendale grammar schools was taken by the Glendale Advancement association today noon when Herman Nelson was instructed to confer with members of the Board of Education and the superintendent of city schools in an effort to determine the actual needs of the grammar schools and ascertain whether or not the school authorities themselves contemplate the calling of a grammar school bond election.

In their action, members of the Advancement association left the high school out of their plan. They propose only to deal with the needs of the grammar school, Mr. Nelson said. There is no intention on the part of the Advancement club to initiate or sponsor a bond election, he stated. The association will merely seek information in the matter. J. F. McClish, Mrs. Mabel Tight, J. F. Chandler, R. M. Brown, President C. W. Ingledue and others spoke in favor of adequate grammar school facilities.

Kinch to Petition

Councilman S. C. Kinch will represent the Advancement association before the high school board in asking that ornamental street lights be installed along Broadway in front of the Union High school grounds. Mr. Nelson suggested that the lights be installed by public subscription. This measure was opposed by Councilman Kinch, who declared that it was an imposition to expect property owners as individuals to pay for lights in front of the school. He urged that the high school board take care of the expense through their regular channels.

Dr. G. I. Royce, new editor of the Glendalian, east side weekly newspaper, formerly edited by E. M. Ingledue, was a speaker. The association met at the Harriett Mae Tea room.

Monarch Building Is Sold For $175,000

The Monarch building, at the southeast corner of Brand boulevard and Harvard street, has been sold by H. M. Butts, Frederick A. Butts and Robert Plume, owners, to Matt T. Mancha of Los Angeles for a consideration of $175,000.

Only the building itself, with frontage of 107 feet on South Brand boulevard and extending back 80 feet on Harvard street, was included in the deal. Mr. Butts and Mr. Plume still retain the remainder of the property, amounting to 45 feet.

Occupying the ground floor of the two-story brick building are the Ahlmann Drug Co., Fashion Center and Monarch Auto Supply Co., owned by a corporation in which H. M. Butts and Frederick A. Butts hold controlling interest, will retain its lease in the building. Mr. Mancha, the new owner, will continue the policy of former owners, leasing the ground floor to stores and the second floor for offices.

Caillaux Is Cynosure of Women's Eyes

PARIS, April 21.—Parisian beauties crowded the Chamber of Deputies gallery today when Joseph Caillaux, the new minister of finance—and once convicted of treason—made his first appearance. He was the center of all eyes. He was immaculately dressed in a modishly cut black coat and striped trousers and he wore the usual monocle. He was oblivious apparently of the admiring feminine stares.

Deputy Bertrand, in the name of wounded war veterans, addressing Caillaux said:

"Your presence in this parliament is a challenge to the living and an insult to the dead."

Caillaux adjusted his monocle, regarded Bertrand closely, but made no reply.

Harry G. MacBain Is Chosen Mayor Of City

one year next preceding the date of the election.

Glendale, as a result, today has a City Council of only four members. When it meets Thursday morning in its first regular business session, contested matters will probably have to be continued until a fifth member is obtained by appointment. There can be no action if the council splits evenly, which would be highly probable in some matters affecting various policies.

Extend Best Wishes

Members of the retiring council gave their best wishes to the new body in short talks as they gave up their seats to incoming councilmen.

"I've had a wonderful time the past six years serving the city of Glendale," said Robinson. "I've seen the city grow from a town of 13,000 to 55,000. I am perfectly satisfied with the new council, and that is saying a lot. I can only wish for them that they are given the support that we always had, of the big men and women of Glendale.

"The Chamber of Commerce is back of the new council, as well as all of the other civic organizations. The new council has most able assistants in the city employes. I'm mighty proud of the heads of the various city departments. There has been harmony in city affairs almost all the way through."

Flowers, Then Brickbats

"Enjoy your flowers tonight because in four years the flowers will turn to brickbats," advised S. A. Davis, retiring councilman. "I appreciate the friendship of the city heads and employes," he continued. "I think that Glendale has the best department chiefs and the best group of city employes to be found anywhere in the United States.

"I've had two happy nights in the past few years—when I was sworn into office, and tonight as I step out. I've never feft as free as I have since about 10:30 o'clock last Tuesday night."

Davis asserted that he is not a candidate for appointment, and declared that he would refuse it if it were offered him. His name had been suggested as a probable appointee to fill the place made vacant by the withdrawal of Muhleman.

"Relations have been very pleasant since I joined the council," said S. S. Gilhuly. "We shall miss the smiling face of Mayor Robinson in city affairs."

New Chief Executive

Mayor MacBain held his first political position in Glendale when he was appointed to the City Council last December following the death of Councilman Asa Hall. Last Tuesday he was returned to office by the largest vote polled by any of the twenty-one candidates in the field. Last night he was hailed and proclaimed as Glendale's mayor.

He was born at Grand Rapids, Mich., forty years ago. Before coming to California twenty years ago he was manager for the C. W. Post Cereal Co., Battle Creek, Mich. He first went into business here with the Shaver Grocery Co., later absorbing that concern under the name of MacBain Grocery. He is a member of the board of directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce where he has served with distinction. He is also a leading member of the Glendale Kiwanis club.

Putnam, F. C. Ayars and A. H. Montgomery of the revision committee, will meet tomorrow at the clubhouse. Firemen Break Speed Record to Turn Gas

Fire department apparatus from Station No. 1 broke all speed records yesterday afternoon after a frantic call for aid from Mrs. L. H. Lowe, 461 West Windsor road.

Firemen rushed into the house to quell flames and—turned down the gas under the water heater! The gas had been turned too high and flames from the burner reached up the sides of the tank. The water was hot but the house was untouched.

At noon today the department was called to extinguish a blaze in a pile of excelsior at the home of C. E. Phillips, 436 West Salem street, which had been ignited by a nearby gasoline stove in a garage. No damage was done.

Newsprint production of Canada is now greater than the combined production of Great Britain, Germany, Sweden and Finland.
